

Queen Brenda Wooten

"Piper Brenda" to be crowned

Big red apples? Peanut M&M's? Helium-filled balloons? Rainbows? (un) Coordination? Tennis shoe blow-outs? Climbing fire escapes? Fresh chocolate chip cookies? Bicycles? Peppermint Patty? Intimate (cologne)? All these and many other things make up Brenda Sue Wooten, Freed-Hardeman College's 1974 May Queen.

The brown-eyed sophomore from Chattanooga is currently a member of the Pied Pipers, Co. II, and the Dactology and GRTC clubs. She was one of this year's Christmas attendants and last year she was elected as one of the Freshman Homecoming attendants and campus beauties.

Brenda, who is a family and social service major, plans to continue at F-HC and be eligible for the B. S. degree in the spring of '76.

"I have made so many new friends while I have been at Freed-Hardeman," Brenda remarked and added, "I love to be with people that make me laugh and that I can laugh with."

May Day set for April 27

Approximately 2000 interested high school students, sponsors, and parents are expected to be present for the Freed-Hardeman College High School-May Day on April 27, according to Eddie Miller, Admissions Counselor. "I think this year's High School-May Day program will provide a good cross-section of college life at Freed-Hardeman," said Miller.

The big day will start at 8:30 a.m. with registration and campus tours conducted from the Student Center by members of the Personal Evangelism class.

General Assembly will be at 10:00 in Bader Gymnasium. There will be a devotional by Steve Guy, president of the Third Year Class, followed by speeches by various student representatives and deans. At 11:00 a.m. group meetings will be held for such groups as students who have already applied for the coming fall, seniors and juniors, sophomores and freshmen, and Mid-South Youth Campers.

Lunch will be served in Gano Cafeteria by Morrison Food Services beginning at 11:30 a.m. All sponsors, chaperones, and high school students with tickets will be guests of the college for lunch. All others will pay $1.50 in the cafeteria.

Department heads will meet with prospective students at 12:30 p.m. concerning their various fields of interest.

A double-header baseball game between Freed-Hardeman College and Aquinas College in Nashville will begin at 1:00 p.m.

At 2:00 p.m. the May Queen Coronation, coordinated by the Student Council, will be conducted on the lower tennis courts. This year's May Queen is Brenda Wooten, a sophomore family and social services major from Chattanooga. May Day attendants are Connie Forbis from Jackson, representing Alpha Tau; Susan Stanley from Muscle Shoals, Ala., Eupathian representative; Debbie Morgan from Cullman, Ala., Phi Kappa representative; Cindy Davis from Evergreen, N.C., representing the Philomathians; and Judy Douglas from Jackson, Sigma Rho representative. May Pole Winders and escorts representing the five social clubs will be present to share in this gala event.

The coronation program will feature the College Band, directed by John Hollingsworth; the A Cappella Singers, under the direction of John Bob Hall; the Pied Pipers, under the student directorship of Steve Brown, with faculty adviser Jackie Scott; and the Griffins, coached by Hoyt Kirk.

There will be a special entertainment program at 4:00 p.m. in Bader Gymnasium at which the Chapel Singers, directed by W. D. Jeffcoat; the Chorus, under the direction of Kelley B. Doyle; and the A Cappella Singers, directed by John Bob Hall will each give 20 minute programs.

Concluding the busy day will be the final performance of The Crucible, directed by Marcus Hayes at 7:30 p.m. Admission will be $1 for students and $1.50 for adults.

Banquet highlights spring activities

The Insiders, a musical group from David Lipscomb College in Nashville, will provide entertainment for Freed-Hardeman College's annual Spring Banquet Saturday night at 7:00 in Gano Cafeteria. The Banquet will be the highlight of spring activities at F-HC.

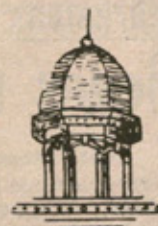

"The insiders are a very good group with professional quality," says Phil Kinzer, vice-

Hall to lead Council

Danny Hall, a Bible major from Henderson, will serve as Freed-Hardeman College's Student Council President for 1974-75. Danny, who was last year's sophomore class president and a member of Pied Pipers, Co. II, is currently the dormitory supervisor for Benson Hall.

Speaking on his "three-S" platform—serving, sharing, and striving, Danny commented, "By serving you, the student body, I hope that next year we will be sharing ideas for improvement that will always be striving to uphold Freed-Hardeman College."

Danny, who will be resigning from his position as dormitory supervisor to become a full time student in the fall, explained, "I will only be taking 14 hours credit in order to devote more of myself to my position. I hope to accomplish many new and improved changes next year and I know with everyone working together, we will be able to fulfill our goals."

Psychology major Roger (Porky) Thompson, a sophomore from Seneca, S.C., will serve in the position as Student Council vice-president. He has been on the Student Council for two years, and is this year's resident advisor in Benson Hall, and sophomore class favorite.

Porky, who stands on his P O W E R platform for next year explains it in this way: "P is for the Christian principles on which this college was founded, O is for an optimistic outlook in 1974-75, W is for a willingness on my part to serve the students, E is for my enthusiasm for plans for the coming fall and spring, R is for our responsibility to strive to better F-HC."

Serving as Student Council secretary is Mary Alice Jones, a sophomore business education major from New Johnsonville. She is currently president of Phi Beta Lambda and a member of the A Cappella singers.

"I will try to always be ready to do whatever the president and vice-president need for me to do in order to make their job easier. It is also important to personally represent the school when visitors are on campus and greet them with a smile and a helpful attitude."

A sophomore from Nashville, Jan Hackney will fill the position as Student Council treasurer. Jan who is this year's sophomore class secretary and President of the Eupathian social club, ran unopposed for her position, had this comment:

"I feel this is a great honor to be the treasurer for the Student Council for next year. Although I was unopposed in the election, I will strive to live up to my duties as treasurer and I will always be available for suggestions to better our school."

The Insiders

Awareness is requisite for improving society

Chet Huntley died last month. Henry Kissinger was married recently.

"You're kidding," says a Freed-Hardeman student. Or, even worse, "Who's Henry Kissinger?"

Sound far fetch d? Hopefully, yes. However, very often we, as college students, are unaware of events occurring every day in the world around us. The apparent reason for this is an attitude of total unconcern. So many of us think that because we are in college, current affairs will not affect our own lives. The world we live in tends to include only events happening on the college campus. Many times we lose contact with the news and often do not learn about it until it is old news.

Lack of concern is also evident when we accept the opinions of others without doing any research or thinking of our own. At home, we listen to our parents discussing current events and problems and form our own opinions from their information. Through the news media, we hear opinions about the world's political state from commentators, biased though some may be, and accept those opinions.

Such actions, motivated by a lack of concern, can and often will create problems for us as responsible citizens of tomorrow. We need to become more aware of the world outside of this college campus, thereby becoming better able to understand the condition of things now and better prepared to improve them.

Bill threatens

Colleges may lose autonomy

The Tennessee state legislature has recently passed a bill which will revoke the charter of any college — state-supported or private — which permits male and female students to occupy jointly campus housing facilities and will subject officials responsible to a jail sentence.

Coed dorms are, admittedly, by no means an issue here at Freed-Hardeman; governmental intervention in the affairs of a self-supporting private college, though, most assuredly is. The question haunts us: if the state of Tennessee can regulate Vanderbilt's campus housing, can the state, by the same token, regulate some aspect of Freed-Hardeman College's community?

The governor, commendably, has vetoed the bill; however, that the bill was ever passed poses a potential threat to the autonomy of private colleges.

Moment's Meditation

John expresses several vital thoughts concerning the Bible and the Christian in I John 2:1-5. The Bible is said to be: (1) The things written by God's chosen men, v. 1; (2) The commandments of God, v. 3; (3) The truth, v. 4; and (4) The word of God, v. 5. Accordingly, when one reads and follows the things written of God, he knows the truth, keeps the word of God, and follows God's commandments.

The Christian, in these verses, is said to derive several blessings from the Bible: (1) He is restrained from sin, v. 1; (2) He is assured of the blessing of Jesus as his advocate when, in spite of God's admonition, he falls into sin, v. 1-2; (3) He knows that he has known and does know God as he keeps God's commandments, v. 3; (4) He is assured of the consistency between his profession and his practice, v. 4; (5) He is aware that his love of God has been and is being perfected, v. 5, and (6) He knows that he is in God, v. 5.

OUTLOOK

by Teddy Butler

To most people, spring means either baseball, income tax, or a young man's thought turning to what the girls have been thinking about all winter.

And, sure enough out comes the sun; out come the bats.

The outdoors starts beckoning; Uncle Sam starts reckoning.

The moon shines clear; the couples disappear.

Everyone, it seems, has his own style of spring fever.

Now of course some styles are naturally more appealing than others. For example, Susy Student prefers her boyfriend's brand of fever over Miss Dorm Mother's.

Nothing personal. It just so happens that Miss Dorm Mother's style comes in Spring Cleaning fever. And that is hardly compatible with a girl who doesn't even own a broom.

"Please see me immediately" wrote Miss Dorm Mother recently in the dust on Susy's dresser. (Susy's contribution to saving paper was by letting her dresser serve as a notebook.)

"Not another attack of asthma after checking my room?" cried Susy, bursting into the supervisor's white-glove-tested abode. "No," replied Miss Dorm

Mother, reaching for her crutches. "Only a broken leg from tripping over the clothes rack."

"I told my roommate that washing those clothes would get us in trouble!" said Susy. "You can't kick around a 10' 'Space Saver' rack of clean clothes the way you can mountains and molehills of dirty clothes."

"Susy," said Miss Dorm Mother, polishing the fingerprints off her doorknob, "I think it's time we had a talk. I've tried to be patient with you, but in doing so, I've become the most frequent patient the doctor has. Do you remember the time a landslide from your desk top fractured my wrist? And the time I was bitten by a mouse when checking your cabinet? And the day I sprained my back carrying out your garbage for you? And this is not to mention the shoes and white gloves I've ruined in your dust. Susy Student, this is spring — the time a young man's thoughts turn to looking for a housekeeper. So if you ever plan to leave this college for Marriage Tech, I suggest you try to get your room next to godliness!"

Roomcheck Day dawned bright and clear.

For the past three days, no one had seen anything of Susy Student, but there had been strange noises coming from her room.

Someone thought she had actually heard a vacuum cleaner. Others said it sounded like a white tornado. But the strangest sound of all was heard at 9:07 a.m. when Miss Dorm Mother opened Susy's door.

Some said it was a scream; some said a gasp; some said a cry.

The doctor called it shock.

He suggested that Miss Dorm Mother be put to bed and that her girls do everything possible to get things back to normal.

The prescription wasn't really all that hard for Susy.

She opened her closet door and all of the shoes and dirty clothes fell right back into place. The bathroom door was also opened, emitting a shower of various and sundry objects that had been stashed away. Susy shook out from under her rug, and immediately the dust returned from whence it came.

In no time at all, she had told Mr. Clean that visiting hours were over and had bottled up the white tornado.

In a few days, even the mice dared to stick their heads out of the cabinet again.

They had to admit the room still smelled a little too nice, and there came that little lady on crutches who wrote on the dresser and occasionally screamed.

But at least Spring Cleaning was over, and that funny man in the white suit was gone.

Denise Pierce

Denise is 1974 Queen

"I just couldn't believe it happened," was Denise Pierce's first remark when asked about her selection as Freed-Hardeman's 1974 Campus Queen in the annual contest, Friday night, March 29. The 5'7", brown-eyed sophomore from Bradford won over nine other contestants in the areas of casual wear, evening gown, and talent competition. For her talent presentation, Denise presented a dramatic interpretation of "Bits and Pieces" by Lois A. Cheney.

Denise is a Liberal Arts major at the present but plans to go into social work next year. She hopes to finish four years of college, but her main goal is to "be happy and make the people I love happy, too." Denise has been a cheerleader at F-HC for two years and enjoys it very much. She loves to drive tractors, play basketball, and eat "good ole' home cooking." This summer, she will be a counselor at F-HC's Mid-South Youth Camp.

"I really enjoyed rehearsing for the contest," said Denise, "because I got to know the other girls better and that really made it a lot of fun. I was a little scared at first, but now that it's all over I wish I could relive it because it was so much fun. I'd like to thank the Philomathean Social Club for sponsoring the contest. I think they did a very good job, and the program was very organized. I'd also like to thank the Alpha Taus for selecting me to represent them. It truly was a great honor."

Cunningham initiates seminar

"One of our greatest needs is better mate selection."

"We need real relationships, instead of romantic notions."

"The essence of marriage is commitment, its being one that lasts forever and ever."

Such were some of the thoughts presented by Dr. Thomas S. Cunningham recently in Freed-Hardeman's College's first Christian Family Seminar.

The seminar, sponsored by the Student Council on March 25 and 26, included sessions daily, two night lectures, and private conferences with students. Reaction to the seminar was so good that "... we want to make it an annual affair," said Brad Brumley, Dean of Students.

A native of Rocky, Okla., Dr. Cunningham serves as Extension Family Life-Specialist at Oklahoma State University in Stillwater, Okla.

"I function in a preventive aspect in mental health," said Dr. Cunningham, concerning his position, "and I try to aid people in managing their mental health. I also have to keep myself informed on all material and write articles in laymen's language for Oklahoma State."

History buffs participate in seminar presentations

History and political science enthusiasts are now afforded the opportunity to feed their appetites for learning by attending the history seminars presented each Thursday evening until April 25 by members of John Hollingsworth's Survey of Civilization classes.

Ten of the most outstanding Survey students, as determined by performances on the first three examinations of the spring semester, are allowed to participate in seminar presentations. Seminar participants are not required to attend class and are guaranteed a grade of the course of no lower than a B. They are, however, responsible for all material covered in class and for taking all regular examinations.

Requirements for the seminar are to (1) present and discuss one of the following: (a) a formal research paper, (b) an original one-act play, (c) an original musical composition, (d) an original short story, (e) production of an artistic creation (painting, sculpture, etc.), (f) other approved project; (2) to present a 10-minute period of discussion; (3) to present a review of a book dealing with any historical event from 1600 to the present. All topics are of the student's own choosing, and he is responsible for researching his topic in sufficient depth as to answer questions from the audience.

Presentations thus far have included such diverse topics as the Equal Rights Amendment, the Russian Revolution of 1917, and John Wesley's evangelistic work in Georgia.

Seminar meetings are held each Thursday at 7:00 p.m. in a conference room of the student center. The public is invited and encouraged to participate in the discussion following each presentation.

This is the third year the seminars have been conducted under Hollingsworth's direction. Hollingsworth says that outstanding students are likely to pursue graduate study, and the seminar gives them early opportunity to conduct independent research and to defend their presentations under questioning, as graduate study will require them to do extensively.

Business club honored at state

Freed-Hardeman's Phi Beta Lambda Club brought home eight awards from the state convention, held at the University of Tennessee at Nashville, April 5-6.

These honors included: Miss Future Business Teacher—Mary Alice Jones, New Johnsonville; Mr. Future Business Teacher—Willie Fitch, Cherokee, Ala.; Junior Secretary—Susan Dickerson, Mayfield, Ky.; third place, Accounting Contest—

David Waldron, Lavergne; second place, Mr. Future Business Executive—H. A. Beasley, Hickory, Ky.; and third place, Vocabulary Relay of Business Terms—Beasley and Paul Trowbridge, Tulsa, Okla.

The club as a whole won third place in the divisions for Most Original Project and Chapter Activities Report.

Phyllis Davis will portray Tituba.

A play with no elaborate set and few props presents a special type of challenge. Emphasis focuses on the words and the way they are said. Such a play is "The Crucible" by Arthur Miller, to be presented April 25-27 at 7:30 p.m. in Thespian Hall.

According to Director Marcus Hayes, "The Crucible" was written as a result of the McCarthy witch-hunting era. As the witches were hunted during the 17th century, so were 'communist witches' hunted during the McCarthy era during the 20th century."

"The play shows the dangers of allowing ignorance and superstition to rule in the place of common sense," said Hayes.

"The Crucible" has a large cast, including: Debbie Barrett, Plymouth, Mich. — Betty Parris; Bob Curry, Pennville, Ga. — Samuel Parris; Phyllis Davis, Lakeland, Fla. — Tituba; Holly Lammons, Jacksonville, Fla. — Abigail Williams; Stephony Brown, Memphis — Susanna Wallcott; Deborah Parsley, Springdale, Ark. — Mrs. Ann Putnam; Ricky Johnson, Waverly — Thomas Putnam; Marcia Campbell, Greenfield, Ky. — Mercy Lewis; Becky Rumbley, Huntsville, Ala. — Mary Warren; Steve Dwight Poole, a freshman from Memphis, recently was named to the All-Western Junior College Conference Team.

All-West Conference Poole earns honor

With an outstanding record in high school and college basketball, it is no wonder that F-HC basketballer Dwight Poole earned the honor of being named to the All-Western Junior College Conference Team.

Poole, a freshman from Memphis, led in individual scoring with a 14.7 average, as well as in rebounding, grabbing 3.6 per game. Coach Hoyt Kirk's Lions ended the season with a 9-14 record.

As for this first season at F-HC, Poole commented, "We really had a good team, but we should have had a better record.

Our intentions were good, but we did have an attitude problem." He stated that probably the big problem was the lack of good will to play together against veteran teams.

Poole lettered for three years while playing for Booker T. Washington High School in Memphis. When he played junior varsity, his team closed the season with a near-perfect 18-1 record. His season as a junior was also a successful one as Washington made it to the state tournament and was ranked among the top five teams. As a senior, Poole received the honor of being named to the All-Tournament Team in the Martin Luther King Triple Holiday Tournament. Poole was named Most Improved Player for the season, and Washington ended the season with 22-6 record after winning both the district and regional tournaments.

Coach Kirk attributes Poole's success to his attitude on and off the court. "Poole has plenty of potential. He's a good hustler. He hustles in the dressing room and right onto the floor," Kirk added. "I'm looking forward to having him back next year. He's a winner."

PKA finishes 10-2; defeated by all-stars

The intramural basketball competition ended Thursday, March 28, as the all-stars defeated champion Phi Kappa men 100-95. PKA finished the season with a 10-2 record. Alpha Tau and Philo tied for second.

In women's competition, Alpha Tau finished first, followed by Eupathians, and Sigma Rho.

Three clubs earned championships in the badminton tournament, Saturday, March 30. Ronnie Hatchett and Ray Kennedy took the men's doubles for Philo. Ron Estes and Teresa Waldron took the mixed doubles for PKA and Sharon Beggs and Deborah Edwards, Eups, were victorious in the women's doubles.

The men's softball, as of April 9, stands with PKA (5-0), Sigma Rho (3-2), Alpha Tau (2-3), Philo (1-3), and Eups (1-4).

Lions are 3-17

The F-HC baseball Lions brought their record to 3-17 by splitting a double header with Dyersburg State, winning 5-1 and losing 9-6 on April 9.

Coach Roy Sharp explained that the team needs improvement in hitting and pitching. However, he added, "Keith Rosenblum is doing a good job hitting and Eddie Cranford is doing the most consistent defensive job.

The batting average for the team as of April 2 is .216. Individually, Rosenblum is averaging .379, followed by Glen Butler with .273, and Frank Bradford with .259.

In fielding, the team average is .947. Kit Pogue leads individually with .988, followed by Eddie Cranford with .978, and Art McNeil with .935.

Other wins made by the Lions were a 6-2 decision over Lane College, and a 6-5 win over Harding.

The Lions take on Volunteer State in a double header here this afternoon.

Netmen to repeat nationals?

The Freed-Hardeman tennis team can anticipate going to the nationals for the second consecutive year, according to Coach Robert Witt.

The team, with a conference record of 2-1 and a 3-2 record overall, lost a 6-3 decision to Martin College April 5. Witt explained that the loss tied F-HC with Martin in the conference, but that they will probably meet Martin again in the state championship.

Returning players this season are Tim Oldham, Henderson; and Paul Highfield, Ft. Payne, Ala. Newcomers to the team include Jerry Howard, Murray, Ky.; David Reeves, Murfreesboro; Bruce Beckham, East Miami, Fla.; Keith Barnett, Florence, Ala.; and Hollis Morrison, Columbia, who is serving as substitute.

Wins made by the team include a 5-4 match over Martin on March 20, and 8-1 decision over Bethel March 30, and a 9-0 victory over Shelby State April 2. The team lost their first match to Lambuth, 3-6, on March 18.

According to Witt, "We shouldn't have any more losses, and Martin will probably be the same, so we may have to wait until the state tournament to break the tie."

The team meets Volunteer State here tomorrow.

Meet, banquet set for May 4

Representatives from the men's and women's social clubs are currently training to compete in a Track and Field Day to be held May 4 at Chitwood Athletic Field.

Among the events scheduled for men are long jump; high jump; shot put; 60, 100, 200 (to be run in heats), 440, and 880 yard dash; one mile run; 440, 880, and one mile relay; and one and five lap bicycle races.

Women will compete in long jump; high jump; softball throwing; 60, 100 (to be run in heats), 220, 440, and 880 yard runs; 240, 440, and 880 yard relay; and one and three lap bicycle races.

Ribbons for the first three places will be provided by Hibbett's Sporting Goods, Florence, Ala. Box lunches will be served during the meet, which begins at 10 a.m.

At 7 p.m. that evening, outstanding social clubs and individuals will be honored at the Intramural Banquet. Awards to be presented will include the spring social club trophies, the Sweepstakes Trophy, Male and Female Athlete of the Year, and participation trophies. Winners of dual and individual meets will also be honored at the $2.50-a-plate dinner.
