Sadie Hawkins Gets A New Look

by Sherra Williams

It is new and different with a touch of the old tradition! It is fun-filled and exciting with memory-making activities! And, it is free (for the guys, that is)! It is Sadie Hawkins: Then and Now and Girls Pay All!

Sadie Hawkins 1983, which is sponsored by the junior class, will be held on Saturday, October 22, in Bader Gymnasium. This year's Sadie Hawkins will have a different format with some of the traditional activities, too. Activities will begin at 6:30 p.m. and will last until 10:00 p.m.

The night will have in store for the couples several activities which include pictures, a marriage ceremony, and a "best dressed couple" contest. Pictures will be made from 6:30 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. A uniquely different marriage ceremony will take place from 7:30 p.m. to 8:00 p.m. Gwen Williams, president of the junior class, stated that "if you don't participate in the marriage ceremony, be sure and come to watch anyway. It will be an act you won't want to miss." During these activities, judges will select the best dressed couple. Concerning costumes, "anything goes" this year....from the 50's look to hillbilly!

The main feature of the night will be a two-hour concert with the band Natchez, performing. This eight-member band, which has both a brass and rhythm section, is from Memphis. They are very well-known in that area having performed at the Memphis Barbecue Festival. They will be performing music by such artists as Toto, Men at Work, The Commodores, Hall and Oates, Christopher Cross, and Lionel Richie.

A new feature of Sadie Hawkins is "Kelly's Cupid Dating Service." Any guy who is available and wants to go to Sadie Hawkins but has not yet been asked can give his name and number to Kelly King (3895). This list will not be made public. Girls, here is your chance....just get in touch with Kelly!

Gwen is hopeful of a good turn-out for the event. "We hope to get the upper-classmen more involved this year. The profit from this event will go toward acquiring the Peabody in Memphis for the Junior-Senior Banquet."

Tickets for Sadie Hawkins: Then and Now can be obtained on weekdays in the student center after chapel through Friday, October 21. The price for one couple is $9.50. Pictures are an additional $6.00.

LionBackers Fund Resurfacing

by Lynn Brittain

Contributions by F-HC LionBackers have been used to resurface the college's Robert Witt Tennis Complex.

"It was a great necessity that the six courts be resurfaced," states Cindy Puckett, women's tennis coach. "It had gotten to the point where we were playing on asphalt instead of surface layers," she comments. "Our facility is one of the best in the conference as a result of this project," she adds.

The new courts are green on green with white lines. "The current trend is a single color instead of the red on green combination," Puckett reports. "The courts were lined in a very professional and accurate manner," she adds.

The resurfacing was done by Pavement Sealing Company of Evansville, IN. Mike Collins, an F-HC alumnus, is the company's owner. The cost of the project was $7500. "Mr. Collins gave us a large discount and enabled us to save a large sum of money," reports Tom Davis, F-HC business manager. The lines were painted by Latshaw Line Striping of Evansville.

Hudson To Perform at F-HC

by Dave Sentell

Helen Hudson, hailed as one of the most popular entertainers on the college circuit, will be performing for the students and friends of Freed-Hardeman College this Saturday at 7 p.m. Bringing a diverse act that has charmed the hearts of students all across the nation, Ms. Hudson has wide audience appeal. Ms. Hudson has earned praise as an actor, composer, songwriter, and singer and last year received the Campus Entertainer of the Year Award.

The concert, set for Lloyd Auditorium, could prove to be one of the best ever on the campus of Freed-Hardeman and tickets sell for $1 a person. Her music has been described as pop, country, and folk, as well as cabaret. Some compare her voice with that of Emmy Lou Harris and Joni Mitchell and her original songs are often compared with the works of Carly Simon, Harry Chapin, and James Taylor.

In describing Ms. Hudson, Variety's Todd Everett said, "Her audience contact is immediately endearing. She's enough personality that Hudson would probably be able to make an impression strictly as a talker. As it happens, she's also a terrifically talented composer and singer."

Of special interest to students is the addition of this year's Makin' Music personalities, Peggy Adams and Julie Smith have been asked to perform with Ms. Hudson during the show. Although pictures are welcome before and after the show, Ms. Hudson has requested that no pictures be taken during the show.

New Award Highlights Makin' Music

by Dave Sentell

The Jerry Jones award will highlight new additions to this year's Makin' Music extravaganza according to Makin' Music producer Jim Selbe. The Jerry Jones Award is to be given to a club, class, or dorm based on cooperation, encouragement, sportsmanship, having fun, and demonstration of "the spirit of Makin' Music." The judges are to include the producer, director, coordinators, and the groups chairman.

The award which will include a trophy, will pay $300 (a prize equal to the sweepstakes) and is to be presented following the Saturday night performance. According to Selbe, the prize was implemented to show special honor to the group which best displays what Makin' Music is all about. And naturally, when you think of what Makin' Music is all about, you think of Jerry.

A new practice schedule will also be utilized for the preparing of this year's show. The new rehearsal schedule will be much more practical than in past years and will involve two one and a half hour shifts per night. After February 14, 1984, the auditorium will be available to groups on a revolving schedule basis.

Chapel Conduct Questioned

by Bobby McVey

In the September 15 issue of The Bell Tower, I commented on the new chapel policy, which the deans put forth to encourage chapel attendance. But once students get to chapel, some do not know what it is or why they are there. Loyd Auditorium takes on many shapes at 10:30 a.m. on any weekday.

Some teachers think of chapel as an office, a place to grade tests, or to read the paper or their mail.

Some students think it is a study hall, a place to read an assigned novel, study notes for an 11:30 test, or finish an English Comp assignment.

Still others think of it as a bedroom, lounging in their seats as if they were beds, or completely napping, using the applause at the end of a speech as an alarm clock.

But it is none of these. The auditorium at chapel time is a place to worship God, a place to show attention and respect to those speaking or making a presentation, and a place to applaud when applause is proper.

It is true that not every chapel session is entirely interesting, or that each speaker is worthy of the $100 Benefit Dinner. But the shortcomings of others should not excuse our own.

The majority of students know what chapel is for and use it to that purpose. But enough fail to do so that the problem can not be handled on an individual basis.

It is hard to comment on teachers' actions, because they are responsible to a different set of rules which, according to your perspective, may or may not be unfair.

The school will probably never have chapel guards to monitor and record the misbehavior of individuals. But, the problem is there, and it deserves the consideration of the administration, the faculty and the students.

What Would They Say?

To the editor:

What would you guess the following people would have done if they had been in jail at Philippi with Paul? What would they have said at midnight when Paul said "Let's sing"?

Tony Kirk: "I'd rather talk."

E. Claude Gardner: "Do you think we could stand?"

Winston Harless: "I'd like to request that we sing the third verse differently."

Norman Hogan: "You know, Paul, what we should have done...."

Richard Cave: "Say, I'll bet that you don't know when stocks were first used in prisons for correction, do you?"

Fred Bailey: "Incidentally, that reminds me of something which happened to me one time...."

Thomas Receives Civitan Award

Dr. J.D. Thomas, Vice President for Academic Affairs, was awarded a district honor key at the Civitan Valley District Convention at an awards banquet in Memphis in September. The key was presented by H.P. Callicott, a Union City oil dealer who is the retiring governor of the district.

District policies authorize an honor key for the outgoing governor and for up to three Civitans who have rendered outstanding service to the district over a period of years. The selections, made by a secret committee of three past governors, were announced by Marvin Hall, retired credit union executive from Columbia.

Thomas served as district chaplain in 1978-79 under Hall and again in the 1982-83 year which ends September 30. He also served as district essay chairman in 1982-83. A plaque and a service pin with blue sapphires were presented to Dr. Thomas for his dual roles this year at the convention luncheon on September 17. He also served as Director of Education in 1979-80 and as area lieutenant governor in 1977-78 and in 1978-79. At the club level, he has twice served as president and has sponsored twenty-five new members since becoming a member of the Henderson Civitan Club in 1966.

Chapel To Feature Airlift Team

by Nina Davis

On Tuesday, October 18, the Airlift Command Briefing Team will present a program in chapel. The ACBT is a combination of movie and slides narrated by two army personnel. The Airlift team is a service organization meeting the needs of Americans. This organization is the one that helped the American Hostages leave Iran.

They have presented this briefing before the Congress of the United States, military personnel and to many service organizations over the years, but Freed-Hardeman will be the first college campus to see this presentation.

The person in charge of the ACBT is Major General Donald D. Brown, Deputy Chief of Staff Pland Headquarters, Military Aircraft Command, Scott Air Force Base in Illinois. Jack Hilliard of the Placement Office on campus is responsible for bringing the team to campus. "This organization gives one a much better feeling about our country's needs and the protection of her people," he said, based on his viewing of the team last year.

Experienced Performers to Headline Makin' Music

by Gail Nash

After ten hours of observing auditions a committee of five selected the 1984 Makin' Music hosts, hostesses and alternates.

"On October 1, we selected six from an extremely talented bunch that auditioned," said Jim Selbe, co-producer of the spring production.

Julie Smith, a sophomore pre-nursing major from Jackson, Tennessee and Rene Walden, a senior administrative services major from Pearl, Mississippi, were named hostesses. Seth Chandler, a senior marketing major from Hohenwald, Tennessee and Steve Hammond, a junior Bible and history major from Lexington, Alabama were chosen as hosts. Serving in the alternate positions are Peggy Adams, a junior administrative services major from Portage, Indiana and Todd Tunnell, a junior Bible major from Springtown, Texas.

The selection committee consisted of Selbe and Winston Harless, producers, Jo-Ellyn Perry and Kay Renfro, coordinators, and Mark Crawford, director of the Makin' Music orchestra.

According to Selbe, several factors were taken into consideration in the selection. "We have a lot of experience in this group. All four hosts and hostesses have appeared as host or alternate. All six to me are good representatives of Freed-Hardeman and will ultimately represent Makin' Music," he said. "As Winston said, I am thoroughly pleased and the more I think about the six of them, the happier I am."

Being a representative is the major emphasis Seth Chandler places on his position as host. "I think the hosts and hostesses should be representative of the students. We will want to make them happy and do a good job for them. I'm really thankful to be able to represent the student body," he said.

Seth auditioned last year for the position as host with no prior performing experience. He solicited the help of a good friend, Beth Robison, who played the piano for his audition, and Rene Walden, who coached Seth into readiness.

"I am so glad she didn't tell me what she was thinking at the time—she thought it was some kind of joke," said Seth.

In contrast to Seth, Steve Hammond, also a returning host had quite a bit of performing experience before auditioning. Steve was a member of Chorale his freshman year and sang first tenor with the 1982-83 Hardeman Boys. Since last year, however, Seth has become a member of the group Phoenix.

All six have represented the school as performers. Rene Walden has been a member of Phoenix for several years and Julie Smith performed in Troupe last year. Alternates Peggy Adams and Todd Tunnell were both in Chorale during their freshman year. As sophomores, Peggy was in Troupe and Todd sang baritone with The Hardeman Boys. Both hostesses have sung in the alternate position, Rene in 1982 and Julie in 1983. According to Julie, this experience was invaluable.

"Being an alternate was the best thing that could have happened to me. I received direct exposure to what it was like, but I was not under the pressure of the hostess position," she explained.

Julie has been working toward this achievement for quite some time. "When I was in the tenth grade, I saw Makin' Music for the first time and I told my mother, 'That's what I want to do!' It has been one of my highest goals at F-HC," she said.

One feeling all the hosts and hostesses seem to share is excitement about Makin' Music.

"I will get a thrill out of helping lead in this exciting occasion. And it is exciting. After months of working, studying and getting tired, we all get together and explode in a tremendous musical review. The happiness of Makin' Music is the happiness of Freed-Hardeman," said Todd.

"It's a satisfying feeling to know you can work hand-in-hand with everyone to create a show like Makin' Music. That spirit really comes out in the whole campus," said Seth.

"It's here! It's finally happened and I am going to live it to its fullest," concluded Julie.

Computer Program Aids Students In Career Search

by Gail Nash

Having trouble deciding on a career? The newest addition to the counseling center at the McDaniel House is specialized in this area, and may be able to help. This counseling aide is a microcomputer program called SIGI.

SIGI's initials stand for "System of Interactive Guidance and Information." It is a computer-based career exploration program designed to help college students make rational and informed career decisions.

"One of the things I find important about SIGI is not so much that it comes up with a particular career for you but it assists you in making decisions and then evaluates them," said Dr. Cliff Bennett, Director of Academic and Life Planning.

The entire program takes about three hours to complete; however, SIGI allows you to stop at any point and pick it up later. SIGI helps you determine abilities, your personality characteristics and priorities and apply them to an appropriate career choice. It can tell you your approximate chances of succeeding at a particular career, a detailed description of the job and the latest statistics from the U.S. Bureau of Labor Development concerning the job market. However, SIGI does not take the place of a personal counselor or make any decisions for you.

"SIGI is used by the counselor as a tool. We like to sit down and talk with a student about his print-out," said Dr. Bennett.

Students who have used SIGI include members of Bobby Bush's Personal Management Class. Although most of these students are upperclassmen, Bennett believes the program can be beneficial to them.

"SIGI is just as helpful to the senior who has almost completed his major as to the freshman who is just deciding. There are a wide major," said Bennett.

Dr. B.J. Naylor, Dean of Instruction, and Dr. Bennett observed a similar program called Discover by the American College Testing Service and SIGI before choosing the latter.

"Our judgment was that SIGI was the better program because it is more specific," said Dr. Bennett.

The SIGI program is leased from Educational Testing Services. One set of discs for the microcomputer costs $1500 and the second set costs $500. Each of the TRS-80 Model 12 computers costs $4000. F-HC's SIGI program was financed through a Title III grant from the federal government.

There is no cost for students to use the program, however.

Christine Cooper works with the new SIGI program in the Counseling Center.

'83 Theatre Season Opens With Chapter Two

by Robert Lambert

F-HC's first theatre production of the year, Chapter Two, by Neil Simon was presented on October 6, 7, and 8 in the form of a dinner theatre. The play concerns the lives of Jenny Malone, a divorcee and George Schneider, a widower. The two meet, fall in love, and get married. All is well until George realizes that he cannot make a full commitment to Jenny because he is obsessed with the memory of his dead wife. They are aided by George's brother Leo and Jenny's best friend Faye.

The cast included Keith Mosher as George, Julie Marshall as Jenny, Darrell Cox as Leo, and Claire Shakelford as Faye.

One might compare watching this play to watching a tennis match. The action continually moves from George's apartment on one side of the stage to Jenny's on the other side.

From the opening scenes, the play seemed to move a little slowly which might cause one to lose interest at times and miss little clues that would help him to better understand what is happening. Dr. Henry McDaniel showed once more his ability to bring across his interpretation of a play through his actors. However, in a few instances these were a little unclear because scenes were not pushed hard enough and some too hard.

The actors did a fine job maintaining character through both serious and light scenes. They worked together beautifully as an ensemble, which is the key to a successful performance of any play.

There was a fifth person introduced whose presence had no relationship to the play other than the fact he was there. He was added by the director for the purpose of giving needed time between scenes. He would enter to clean up the apartments and so on.

Positive and negative aspects can be cited: His presence is much like the comic relief used by Shakespeare. He was worked into the play so as not to take away from or add to previous or following action. And, as already stated, he gave the audience something to watch during the necessary but prolonged breaks. On the other hand, it began to get monotonous when he continually went back to the same source for humor.

The play presents a very realistic story in both problem and solution. Its presentation is both touching and humorous with a high degree of professionalism synonymous with Freed-Hardeman College Theatre Department. Dr. McDaniel, cast and crew are to be praised for their hard work, dedication, and a fine performance.

Expense, Employment Opportunities Result in Supervisor Changes

by Gordon Hase

The administration has made some changes in personnel with regard to dormitory supervision. The traditional Resident Hall Directors, more commonly known as Dorm Mothers, may soon be taking their place in history, as younger, well-qualified students are being chosen to replace them. Such is the case in both Dixon dormitory and Paul Gray Hall.

Sharp concluded, "at the present time we have no plans to replace the remaining dorm supervisors with Student Head Residents."

Jim Selbe, Assistant Dean, notes that the major benefit to the students is that the Student Head Residents can better relate to the residents, since they are students themselves. "The only handi-

Dixon softball team.

The first recruited student to fill the position of Student Head Resident is Charles Green, a sophomore Bible and Social Work major from Newburgh, New York. Charles is serving as supervisor of Paul Gray Hall.

A disabled veteran, Charles served in the First Air Calvary Division of the United States Army during the Vietnam War. He received two Purple Heart awards and one Brown Star award for his services.

Green is a 1979 graduate of the Bristol Road School of Biblical Studies in Flint, Michigan. Before enrolling at F-HC, he was a full-time preacher for four and one-half years at the Chesaning Church of Christ in Chensaning, Michigan.

"At first I was a little unsure but now I'm adjusting much better, especially with the added support of my wife, Elizabeth," said Green of his new job. "Several times a week she'll sit up for me while I sleep or catch up on my studies, and she assists the young men with any problems they might have. The residents here are extremely cooperative, which makes my job even that much easier, and several have even approached me to tell me how much more comfortable they feel with a male supervisor."

Both Carla and Charles receive their funding from the work-study program. Due to this they are required to be full-time students, carrying no less than 12 semester hours. Their job requires that they take no more than 14 semester hours. Being a full-time student is hard enough, without throwing in a full-time job.

Charles Green

Ken and Carla Rutherford

A great deal of planning resulted in the decision to switch to Student Head Residents, the official title of the new dormitory supervisors.

According to Roy Sharp, Dean of Students, the replacements were made for two different reasons. "First," he said, "the change was an economic move. The college will be saving between $3,000 and $4,000 a year, per dormitory, when a Head Resident works, as opposed to the traditional dorm supervisor. Secondly, the college is continually looking for ways to provide additional opportunities for student employment as well as involvement, and at the same time recruit new students. By using students who are qualified to direct the resident halls, we feel that we can accomplish this goal." He continued, "If the present program continues to work as well as it is working, and as present dorm supervisors retire or leave for one reason or another, it seems likely that they will be replaced with Student Head Residents. However," cap to this program that we can foresee," says Selbe, "is that we'll be forfeiting the greater level of maturity and wisdom usually associated in an older person."

Carla Rutherford, a Computer Science major from Washington, Georgia, assumed supervision of Dixon Dorm this fall semester. Although she's happy to have the position, Carla notes that she has had to adjust to her new lifestyle.

"The additional responsibilities really make my study time more precious," she said. "However, the biggest adjustment has come within my marriage relationship. My husband, Ken, and I are newlyweds, and that alone requires many adjustments. I've been more than pleased with the kindness, cooperation, and patience that Ken has shown during these times when my attention must be divided."

Although Carla's time and attention must now be rationed, she still manages to take time to be "one of the gang" as she participates in intramurals on the

She was a member of the Student Alumni Association for one year, and during her sophomore year she also served as a homecoming attendant. Melinda is an active member of the Sigma Rho social club.

Each of the senior attendants feels honored to represent her class considering it is her last year at Freed-Hardeman College. Lynne stated that "Freed-Hardeman College has grown to mean so much to me. The people here hold such a honored that I get to serve on the court with Lynne and Melinda." Melinda said that "it goes without saying that it is an honor. Freed-Hardeman is like no other place on earth." She also stated that she is sad that this is her last year here, but "being on the homecoming court makes it extra-special."

Karen Glass and Gail Nash are representing the junior class. Karen is a social work major, and her hometown is Covington, Tennessee. She serves as treasurer of the Sigma Rho social club. Karen is a member of both the Student Alumni Association and SWSA. Gail is from Summertown, Tennessee. Wanda, a social work major, is from West Palm Beach, Florida. She is a member of the Zeta social club and is in her second year as a Pied Piper. Wanda is also a member of Totalife and the Evangelism Forum.

Chosen as representatives for the freshman class are Vicki Mannon and Kay Owen. Vicki, who is majoring in office management is from Floyd, Virginia. She is a member of Impact and the Phi Kappa Alpha social club. Kay's hometown is Groeville, Illinois. She is a public relations major and is in the Zeta social club. Fall Weekend '83 is scheduled for Friday and Saturday, November 11 and 12. The homecoming royalty will be featured in the Homecoming Parade on Saturday morning. The parade will be followed by the Homecoming Coronation where each attendant and her escort will be presented. At this time one of the three senior attendants will be crowned queen by President E. Cluade Gardner. On Saturday afternoon the new queen and her court will again be presented during halftime of the men's basketball homecoming game. Tickets for this game are on sale in the Office of Student Affairs. All tickets are reserved at $3.00 each.

special place in my heart that I am especially honored to be chosen to serve as one of the senior representatives on the homecoming court." Ashley commented that she felt "in many ways very honored to be chosen to serve on the homecoming royalty this year especially. First, I am excited that my classmates thought enough of me to allow me this position. Second, as a senior, this is the last chance for me to do anything like this and the class's last chance to choose it. This fact doubles the honor. And third, I am

Judo Team Takes 2nd In State Tournament

by Bob Jones

If you were in the vicinity of Bader Gymnasium on Saturday, October 1, then you probably heard a few grunts, yells, and loud thuds. No, there wasn't a "Big Time Wrestling" match going on, those were the sounds of the Tennessee State Judo Championships which were being hosted by the Freed-Hardeman College Judo Club.

Eight teams from around the state converged on the campus to battle in the largest state championships yet and the host team made a very respectable showing for itself, finishing in second place behind the Frayser Judo Club from Memphis. Frayser accumulated a total of 54 points to outdistance Freed-Hardeman with 43. The third place team finished with only 15 points.

F-HC Judo Club president John Smith, who also served as the Tournament Director, was very pleased with how well the team performed. "I'm very proud of the team," he said, "We would have liked to win the team championship but we were just outnumbered by Frayser. Everyone displayed good spirit and played hard."

Approximately 20 members of the team competed in the tournament compared to about 35 from the Frayser club.

The large numbers of competitors resulted in some very exciting and hard-fought matches. "The tournament went really well," Smith commented, "The competition was good especially in the seniors division."

Members of the Freed-Hardeman club who won their division include Smith in Senior men 132 pounds and under, Sheryl Branum in Senior Women 145 and under, Connie Lewis in Senior Women 123 and under, Teresa Surber in Senior Women 134 and under, Idongesit Mkpung in Senior Women 114 and under, Mark Woods in Junior Boys 15-16 light-weight, Nathan Walker in Junior Boys 7-8, and Connie Lewis in Junior Girls 15-16.

The judo club will compete next in the Hamilton Open Judo Tournament in Hamilton, Mississippi, on October 22.

Netters Prepare for Spring Season

by Bob Jones

Tennis may be a spring sport, but both the men's and women's teams have been practicing this fall to prepare for the upcoming season of play in the Volunteer State Athletic Conference (VSAC).

The women have played in two practice matches this fall, beating Union 4-2, and Lambuth 3-1. The men have competed in one match, falling to Union 6-3.

Injuries have plagued the women's team this fall with three of the top six players having been hurt but coach Cindy Puckett is not too worried, saying, "The injuries aren't serious but they're annoying. We should be healthy in the spring."

The women finished with an overall record of 14-4 last year, 12-2 in the VSAC, and they are looking to improve on that this year. "We've got the same talent as last year and we're looking for good things," Coach Puckett commented, "Everybody is working hard and cooperating with each other."

Members of the team include sophomores Stephanie Hall, Leesa Redding, and Amy Gordon, junior Jill Stanphill, and seniors Renee Hensley and Pam Kirk.

The men's team finished with an overall record of 11-10 last year but they had a disappointing 3-9 mark in the VSAC. With three of last year's top four players returning and the addition of new talent the team is hoping to move up in the conference standings.

Coach Bill Boley commented, "I think that we're stronger than we were last year. We should be more competitive in the conference."

Lions Suffer Losing Streak

by Scott Ellis

This past weekend, the Freed-Hardeman Lions baseball team dropped a double-header to the University of North Alabama by scores of 8-5, and 15-0, bringing the Lions record to a dismal 1 win and 9 losses.

Even though the Lions are on a 9 game losing streak, Coach Hoyt Kirk was not completely negative. "We just haven't been getting it together like we are going to need to this spring. The main problem that has plagued us is our defense, as far as errors and routine outs," said Kirk.

The Lions did have a few players noted by Kirk for good play last Saturday. "Mike Logan has done a good job pitching for us. Tony Simmons hit the ball very well Saturday, having 3 hits," said Kirk.

However, Kirk does have a remedy for better play in the future. "Now we know what we have to work on before spring season. We will definitely be working on fundamentals and doing things right for the next few months. We can also look forward to the play of a few of our transfers, who are not eligible for fall action," said Kirk.

The Lions have a chance to get back on the winning track Friday, when they play Lambuth here.
