FREED-HARDEMAN COLLEGE, HENDERSON, TENN., FEBRUARY 1944

NUMBER 5

Letters Echo Values Of January Courses

BRO. JACKSON'S "LANDMARKS" APPRECIATED

Many fine and complimentary messages have been received by faculty and students relative to the Special Courses which closed on Jan. 20. Typical of them is one from which we quote:

"May I in this way express my profound appreciation for the lectureship."

"I have attended three such lectureships (at other places), but I say unreservedly that this one at Freed-Hardeman was by far the best yet."

"I especially appreciate the spirit that prevailed during the lectureship, where every man could 'put his cards on the table' and say what he pleased. This is as it should be."

"My visit with the school during this program convinced me that Freed-Hardeman is the school, so far as soundness and devotion to truth is concerned. I pray that these fine qualities may long prevail there."

Jackson Gives Last Lecture

The final evening meeting of the Courses was devoted to Brother Leonard Jackson, of Franklin, on the theme "Remove Not the Ancient Landmarks." He delivered a powerful message, suggesting landmarks that could be removed and those that have been, but should not be.

Supporting the idea of a sermon in a landmark, he quoted Shakespeare, who found "sermons in stones" and Holmes, who in "The Chambered Nautilus" learned a beautiful principle, derived from observation of a commonplace thing.

The speaker deplored the removal of Christian landmarks, dividing them into three classes. The first was the landmark of morality, with particular reference to modesty in woman and polygamy in the marriage relation. The second was the landmark of Biblical facts, removed by the atheist, the monotheist, and the modernist. The third was the landmark of Biblical commands.

CHILDREN ARE FIRST TO AID ON BUILDINGS

The members of the Primary Department were the first to contribute to the building program that has been begun for the College. In chapel on the morning of Jan. 27, two members of the Demonstration School presented Bro. Roland with twenty-six dollars, which the children had donated.

The Homemakers' Club followed close with the presentation of a twenty-five-dollar bond to help on the program.

Akin Alumni Write "Home"

Brother W. Claytus Anderson '39 of 8253 Chalmers St., Van Dyke, Mich., wrote the last of January, expressing appreciation of a copy of the Sky Rocket recently sent to him, and enclosing a dollar for a year's subscription. He says, "I was one of the first 'Akin Boys'." "I have begun my third year with the Church here in Van Dyke, Michigan. The people are principally from Kentucky and Tennessee." Also "We have a fine baby boy, three years old—a source of much joy and happiness." We appreciate the news from both the senior and junior Andersons.

J. W. Mankin, only last year of F.H.C., but now on the European battlefield, wrote to Brother Hardeman last month as follows: "Will take this opportunity to let you know that I am still alive and well. Have had several unhappy experiences lately, being in contact with the enemy, but at the present I am enjoying the tranquillity and comfort of a hospital. I have had a severe case of immersion feet, but have improved greatly."

"Have been spending much of my time lately reading. With the help of the chaplain, I have secured some helpful and interesting literature, such as church history, commentaries of the gospel, etc."

"At present am planning to return to school at my earliest convenience, if the Lord wills. Would appreciate any news from F.H.C. at all times."

Two other alums in the service (not "Akin Boys" however) are Bergie Byron Brooks, now a tech supply officer and first lieutenant, "Somewhere in England" and James Graham, now a surgeon on the Italian battlefield.

SANDERS-DANIEL BYRD-CRAIG

On December 19, in a double ring ceremony at the home of the bride's sister, Nell Daniel, '41 became the bride of Sgt. Robert Sanders of Milan. Elder W. O. Folwell officiated.

Nell wore white jersey with a corsage of pink rosebuds. Her only attendants were Marie (Daniel) Manner '42 and Juanita Treece '42.

After a short wedding trip, the bride resumed her duties as mathematics instructor in the city school of Trenton, and the groom returned to his post in Miami Beach, Fla.

Invitations have just been received on the campus to the wedding of Robert Byrd to Marjorie Katherine Craig, on Feb. 14, at Palm Avenue Church of Christ in Fresno, California.

Alumni Cherish College Connection

IDEA FROM RUTLEDGES

From all over the world come welcome letters from "our boys" so widely scattered by the fortunes of war and other duties. Early in January, Grady Weaver, with the fleet in the Pacific, wrote us: "Recently I received the November issue of the Sky Rocket. Needless to say I enjoyed it very much. Since you are connected with the paper, I am sure I can depend on you to see that I continue getting same. Will you please inform the proper authorities as to the change of address?"

Indeed we will, Grady, and did, and we urge our boys in the service, or anyone who may have their addresses, to keep us up to date, that the Sky Rocket may follow them.

A letter from Emily Rutledge, in late January, says that she and Blanch were "delighted to hear from Gordon Linscott last week as he was passing through Newport News, Va., on his way overseas."

"It was so good to see someone from F. H. C. to get out annuals and pictures and recall all those happy carefree days."

"Though Newport News is quite a busy place during this war and even though there are so many many soldiers and sailors stationed here and at Norfolk, Gordon is the very first one from F. H. C. I've seen since I left school."

"I wonder if it would be out of order to mention our address in the Sky Rocket so if anyone passes by they may look us up without much trouble."

We think it so very decent and in order that we hasten to approve the thoughtful suggestion. The address is Emily and Blanch Rutledge, 47 Davis Ave., Beacondale Newport News, Va.

Enimagene (Baby Dumpling) Boles, now living at 8020 N. W. 11th Ave., Miami, Fla., also wrote a splendid letter recently. She says, "Allene (Barrett) and I always mark time by the years at Freed-Hardeman."

BIOGRAPHIES FEATURE CHAPEL TALKS

Interesting Chapel talks have been given recently by college boys. On February 4, Harold Trimble gave unusual facts concerning Cordell Hull, native of Tennessee. Clinton Hamilton told the life of Anthony Eden on February 8. The life of Dwight Eisenhower was depicted on the following day by R. H. Bankhead. These and other biographical sketches have been arranged by Bro. Hall and Bro. Brigance in order to acquaint the student body with these present-day personalities.

Pres. Hardeman Announces F. H. C. Expansion Program

Valentine Party Saturday Night

The beginning of the spring love season was last Saturday night, when faculty and students assembled in the gym to celebrate Valentine Day. Huge red and white hearts and streamers and even a "Dorothy Dix" booth changed the ordinary looks of things and lent gaiety to the scene.

As a warm-up, the orchestra played several numbers, while everybody chatted and beat time. Then came a number of games suited to the occasion. "Lost Hearts and Arrows" was timely and hilarious, while "Sewing on the Button" was more so. The latter displayed the domestic talent (!) of the girls as they more or less skilfully anchored buttons to the boys' coats. Then each of four literary societies put on a skit, among them a ham edition of the balcony scene from "Romeo and Juliet." Brother Witt then stirred up some jolly "hearty" games and the orchestra played again.

During the evening, puzzled lovers and would-be lovers visited the "Dorothy Dix" booth where J. C. Noblitt dispensed advice to the lovelorn.

At the close of the party, the faculty ladies served hot chocolate and huge trays of heart-shaped cookies, decorated with pink frosting.

BRO. AKIN BETTER

Brother John W. Akin had the misfortune of having a fall in which he broke a rib and other smaller injuries, back in mid-January at his home in Longview, Texas. He was planning to attend the College Special Courses and was having a shower in preparation for the trip. Reaching for the soap, which had fallen, he lost his footing and fell, hitting his side against the tub. It caused the breaking of the rib and very painful bruises about his shoulder, back and side, and prevented his trip. Latest reports however, say that he is recovering rapidly.

FORREST DEACON

With sorrow we announce the death of Forrest Deacon 42, of Nashville, the last of January. The occurrence is of particular sadness when we recall the accidental airplane death of his brother Harold, '28, on August 14.

Forrest was born in Washington County, Ky., in 1902, the son of Brother and Sister N. W. Deacon. The family moved to Henderson

THREE NEEDS TO BE FILLED

On January 20, the last day of the Special Courses, Bro. Hardeman made formal announcement to the students and visitors of the expansion program to be inaugurated. The Board of Trustees had met during the preceding week and outlined the plan to enlarge and improve the facilities of Freed-Hardeman College.

Bro. Hardeman gave a history of its growth from the beginning until the present time. Such has been steady and permanent throughout the years. The need for addition facilities due to increased enrollment, was stressed.

The plan as announced by Bro. Hardeman includes an addition to the Administration Building to provide a large library, a study hall, and several classrooms. Eighteen rooms are to be added to the boys' dormitory. To provide housing for the married couples that come each year to attend college, fifteen to twenty cottages and apartments will be built.

The total cost of these three projects has been estimated to be around $75,000.00. It is the desire of those in charge of this expansion program to try to have the money ready in order to get the work started as soon as the government will allow it.

A. T. L. BIRTHDAY

On Saturday night, January 15, the Alpha Tau Lambda society held a banquet in honor of their first anniversary. Arranged as a semi-formal affair, fifty persons attended, including representatives from the other societies.

After the guests were ushered in, while the orchestra played various numbers, John Scott, president, made a short talk and introduced the master of ceremonies, Donald Taylor. Immediately following this, a comedy act was presented, featuring Roy Willingham and members of the orchestra.

As the orchestra gave its version of "Paper Doll," H. A. Fincher sang the same. Bob Ewell gave a funny skit, Norma June Smith sang "Darktown Strutters Ball" and Kitty Lowe and Ettie Spears sang "My Heart Tells Me."

Bonnie Hatter and Marvin Rockwell received prizes in a recognition contest. Later Lester Littlebrain prepared the audience for the presentation of the birthday cake that Mrs. Finley, faculty sponsor, had made. Nell Jones found a ring in her piece of cake signifying that she would be the first to marry and Kathleen Johnson found a thimble, symbol of a good housewife.

THINGS OF BEAUTY

That big book of words defines beauty as that quality or qualities of a thing which give pleasure to the senses or pleasurably exalt the mind or spirit. Everyone recognizes the beauties in nature and in the works of man. We continually thank God for the wonderful gifts of nature that make our surroundings so magnificent. We marvel at the great painting or wonderful architecture that man has produced. However, in our appreciation of physical beauties, it is possible that we have lost sight of beauties that present themselves in the intangible realm. One of the most magnificent of things is friendship. The joys that flow from the existence of true friendship are unexcelled. One just needs to observe the existence of such to realize that there is beauty in friendship.

Here in college we are connected even more closely than otherwise and here more than anywhere else we should try to increase our number of real friends. This cannot be attained by indifference or neglect, but by going out of our way in order to do good for the other fellow. If we criticize our fellowman he is not helped, but we ourselves have been harmed.

FIVE THINGS

I Peter 4:7-9

Majestic as a giant water-wheel our solar system revolves. Serene in their silence the distant stars glow. It is beautiful.

But how long will it continue? Who knows? None but God. Some day a deafening roar, the ponderous meeting of Venus and Mars and other bodies. What a terrible end. When we consider that only about one hundredth of the earth's radius is crust and the rest molten matter within, it is not hard to see that the end of the earth to man will be like dropping a hot potato on an ant.

However, some day God will do this very thing. Then woe unto the children of men! Knowing this, Peter told the Christians to prepare.

Be sober; neither be drunk nor careless about your deeds.

Watch. As a cat is wary not to wet its foot, so take care that our foot is not set in sin.

Pray. God empowers. God leads. He gives wisdom and redemption. Seek him in prayer.

Have fervent charity. Fervent! Fervent means "burning" "eager" Let's not have a silent cold love but an intense warm fellowship in love.

Hospitality "without grudging."

(From Sky-Rocket of April 1935)

BOLDNESS

As light is essential to the value of a lamp, so boldness is the main feature of a Christian and especially of a preacher.

Many a preacher is beaten, whipped, cowed, before he utters a word in the pulpit. He might as well stop and muster his courage.

It was Emerson who in his youth realized that he did not have complete self-mastery and confidence. As a youth he simply was quiet. Anyone, however, who reads the writing of his maturer years can see only boldness, no cringing.

Young men often are not bold, can't be bold, and so the only thing to do is to set about to master themselves, have a firm conviction of what they say and a realization that their work is a life and death matter. Be bold!

PREACHER PARAGRAPHS

"There's a call comes ringing 'Send the light.' " During the special courses this truth was greatly emphasized, and in many of our minds it gave birth to a new realization of the responsibility resting upon the shoulders of all those professing to be Christians and proclaimers of the Word. Brother C. E. McGaughey in the initial lecture painted a picture of our return to the New Testament church pattern and to the faithfulness and zeal that was characteristic of it. Brother Leonard Jackson culminated the series by showing some of the ancient landmarks of God and exhorting us to "remove them not," but rather point them out to every soul. People can't hear except they be told, hence it's our duty to tell them.

Here at Freed-Hardeman College we have very favorable surroundings, and our opportunities for preparation are not to be excelled. Shall we stand idly by and let the golden hours of opportunity go flying into the past without taking advantage of them? May God have mercy on us if we do.

With the exception of January 14, at which time the special courses were in progress, the Preachers' Club has continued to meet every Friday night, and new speakers are learning what it means to be under the fire of constructive criticism directed by Brother Hall.

Speakers for recent meetings have been Emmett Mullins, Hubert Showalter, Glenn Hargett, W. R. Murray, T. R. Bankhead, R. E. Van Tassel, Bill Nicks, C. M. Allen, J. W. Goss, and Earl West.

SIGMA RHOS

The following have been chosen to serve as new officers: Larry Grounds, Bill Bryant, Clinton Hamilton, Maxine Mercer, Claud Gardner, Roy Hearn.

On January 31 our program included the mimicking of some faculty members. Coach Stewart found out and wonders why the dumbest one in school is always chosen to ape him. Three guesses.

"Meet the Wife" a farce starring Clinton Hamilton and Annette Tigrett, was well received by an appreciative audience on Feb. 3. The only thing lacking was sufficient aisle space to accommodate those who rolled with convulsions of uncontrollable mirth.

ALPHA TAU LAMBDA

At the Alpha Tau meeting on Monday, January 31, a variety program was presented. Jim Brasher, as always, was present with accompaniments on his guitar. Don Taylor sang "Down by the Old Mill Stream." To his accompaniment Ettie Spears and Miriam Leeper sang "On the Shores of Tripoli."

Ruby Nell Woods's dramatic rendition tickled the ears of her audience. Last were two good numbers by the boys' quartet.

The latest summary of appointments is as follows: Jimmy Powell: Antioch, Tenn., and Carrollton, Miss.; Garvin Smith: St. Elmo, Ill. (every Sunday); James C. Noblitt: Jack's Creek, Tenn., Houston, Hamilton, and Aberdeen, Miss.; Tom E. Cudd: Lexington, Tenn.; Glenn Hargett: Leighton, Ala.; Roscoe Swindler: McEwen, Tenn.; Crockett and Golden, Miss.; Don Taylor: Medina, Macedonia, Whitwell, Morganville, Tenn., Columbus, Ohio, and Parkersburg, W. Va.; Marshall Conner: Osceola and Bayton, Ark., Arbyrd, Mo., and Wenasoga, Miss.

In the days of old, modern means of transportation were not known, and if such men as A. Campbell and Raccoon John Smith had seen a streamlined automobile coming toward them they might have climbed a tree to get out of the way of such a "monstrosity." They had perhaps a pony, a buggy, or a wagon, however, and a perfectly good set of legs, and they WENT preaching the Word, taking days to cover a distance which would take us only a few hours.

Some of us with our lily-white hands, who think that it is impossible to preach a sermon without being delivered to the very front door of some nice church building, could well take heed to examples of the pioneers; or even to Bert Brown, who a few Sundays ago walked 22 miles, preached 3 sermons and received not a penny for his efforts. I wonder how many of us would have been so tired that we couldn't open our mouths, or would have even gone?

A. C. E.

The program committee has met and made out the programs for the remainder of the year. On January 21 the club met at the home of Sister Foy. The following short talks were given: "Helping Children Grow in Economic Completeness" by Janet Whitehurst; "Children Who Work" by Miriam Leeper; and "What Work for Children?" by Bonnie Hatter. Regular meeting days for the chorus practice was agreed upon.

On February 4, we attended the show concerning Tuberculosis. It was both instructive and interesting to all.

SCIENCE CLUB

At the meeting of the Science Club January 27 interesting discussions of new uses for common items were had.

It is difficult to realize concrete can be placed in water and not sink. Stanley Ash said his subject "Sea-Going Concrete" did not include a sidewalk built across the Atlantic, but the fact that merchant ships made of concrete now sail the seven seas.

Owen Freeman discoursed on "Paper Finds New Uses." Chemically treated, water-proofed paper is now serving the Armed Forces

PHI KAPPA ALPHA

The Phi Kappa Society has enjoyed recently some very unique weekly programs composed of mixed quartet numbers and extemporaneous speeches.

The boys' and girls' basketball teams have proved their ability by the boys' victory over the All-Stars, and the girls' winning two games out of five.

PHILOMATHEAN

The chapel program presented by the Philo Society on January 27 was called "Truth or Consequences." The great and notable Ralph Edwards, or rather Joe Foy, was the master of ceremonies, with members of the other societies as "victims." The recent weekly programs have been varied in nature.

Election results for this six weeks are as follows: Joe Foy president; Dora Boone, first vice president; Janet Whitehurst, second vice president; Myrna Chapman, secretary; Charles Plum, reporter; and Willene Henry, Sgt. at arms.

HOMEMAKERS

As a patriotic duty and in accordance with the plan for all affiliated college clubs, the F. H. C. Homemakers Club has given a twenty-five dollar war bond to the Home Economics department. For its social work, the club is sending a subscription of "Good Housekeeping" magazine to Jimmie Lou Martin, a former student of F. H. C.

At the meeting January 28, six new members were added to the roll. They are: Iretta Bailey, Willene Henry, Julie Powers, Myrna Chapman, Mary Henry, and Joanna McClellan. A report was made on the sale of popcorn at the ball games. The following program was presented:

Eggs as Meat Substitutes

Georgia Sanders

Milk and Cheese as Meat Substitutes

Chris Moody

The Present Value of Nuts As A Food

Jean Baker

A committee was appointed to make plans for a Valentine party.

well in many ways. It is tough and durable as canvas. Small parachutes, tents, and even clothing are made from it. Be careful in buying your new spring frocks---the old brand of paper goes to pieces when wet.

Bill Goss indicated that "He who lives in a glass house can now throw stones." Future houses will be constructed of unbreakable glass blocks, which will permit remodeling by merely changing the location of the blocks. Also unbreakable mirrors will reduce bad luck to a minimum.

BRICKBATS

By JOE FOY

Off again to the foolishness that usually characterizes a column of this type. Foolishness with some people is a matter of policy; with others a means of getting laughs. Some people can't help being foolish; but, pity the poor wretch, who, like me, has to be foolish in order to please his editor (or fool the fool into thinking he's foolish).

I have heard alarming reports the past week that one of our younger students, who also takes some high school subjects, doesn't like the way the high school girls smile at Paul Hall when he gives them foul shots. Let's hope there is no such dissension among the students. I'm sure he doesn't give them foul shots to make them smile at him.

Speaking of basketball players, is it true that Bertelyn Cagle is the roughest among the girls? I've heard the complaint circulated among Philomathean opponents (who, incidentally, have all been beaten) that she is. Seems to me that those 12 or 14 points she turns in per game might have something (not much—just a little) to do with an opinion like that.

They tell me John Renshaw left his light on the other morning, and had to go all the way back from the cafeteria to turn it off. Moral: don't believe every thing you hear, John,

It grieves me to have to announce that Jewel Wilson was desperately ill while she was with us a week ago. My source of information was her office in Anniston, Ala. However, she effected an amazing recovery, and was behaving quite normally, for her, in less than an hour after she arrived. (Confidentially, I think Jewel was gold-bricking, don't you?)

(Please, Gardner Chamberlain, won't you put down the window? We're not all supermen like you, you know.)

Some very amazing happenings have occurred during the past few weeks. First there's the inexplicable appearance of Harold Purdom's name on the book at the cafeteria every night. (I'm never there at any other meal.) I fail to see how Harl could sign his name on it when he's 650 miles west of here. Any solutions to this enigma would be greatly appreciated.

Then here's one I don't even believe, even though it comes from a reputable witness. It's gruesome. Demetria Hopper was down town the other day, throwing her head around, when suddenly it hit a door and nearly knocked her out. There's something about that story that makes me doubt it. However, it's yours, for whatever you can make of it.

To Georgia Sanders: can't you find a better use for New Testament class than writing notes? Get your comp. or Am. History, but don't be composing anything that begins, "Dearest Roy".

Dear reader, for your edification, I am passing on some definitions given me by L. O. Grounds, Bro. Hall's star spelling pupil (what a class!). They are colorful bits of language that will brighten up your talk considerably.

Photograft: A picture of some hush money.

Boughtany: The science of buying plants.

S'nough: One pinch too many.

Reprobait: A fisherman of the Stewart variety.

Frances Green got a post card the other day that said some of the awfulest things. It said that she wasn't going to enjoy his company; and that she wasn't going to get to corrupt his morals; that she was the kind of girl his mother had always warned him about, and just the other terriblest things. What's the matter, doesn't Abie like you?

Wayne Hammontree has his gas model here now. He says it flies very nicely, but it can come down at some of the horriblest times and places!

To Bonnie Hatter: Coach and I don't like for girls to be engaged. Now you'll have to take your ring off. Hah!

Is it true that one of the local Primitive Baptist preachers used Orbra Johns as an example of total hereditary depravity?

Speaking of Johns, Mrs. Hamilton has at last found the perfect way to control "Dagwood." She just tells him that if he isn't good he'll grow up to be like Bill Thompson. Now he behaves himself quite well.

Stanley Ash and Billie Bryant spent last Sunday afternoon meditating. At about six o'clock, I was passing the dormitory and heard a blood-curdling series of noises. Going in to investigate, I found them hitting each other with chairs, butting their heads together and against the walls, and emitting ferocious growls and whoops. Meditation!

Romance is dying at Freed-Hardeman. I base that declaration upon no trifling amount of evidence. Witness: (1) the small number of couples in the lobbies on Sunday nights; (2) their amazing absence from the ball ground; (3) a letter one of our boys wrote to one of our most popular blondes that if she didn't desist from her shameful pernicious and decidedly opprobrious conduct, he would most certainly be forced to deprive her of the pleasure of his company. When she told me of this, with pellucid tears flowing down sorrow-stricken cheeks, my heart was moved with pity, but there is naught that I can do, that being in Miss Fixit's territory. No, alas, romance is not dying. It is dead. (But don't despair, girls; spring is just around the corner of March.

Now, while the dirge is played, and the cold gray form of romance is tenderly borne, in its casket, to its final resting place, I leave thee, gentle reader, hoping that such times may not long last. (Ed. note. Pooley!)

Miss Fixit Says

Dear Miss Fixit:

It is not my custom to bring my troubles to a female but this time I'm at the end of my rope and really need aid. It's like this Miss Fixit: this year you know we have an abundance of girls at F. H. C. In fact we might even have more girls than boys—which is itself an oddity. Up to this time, this, has proved an advantage for the boys and myself.

At the time being though, I have the problem of trying to decide which of two girls I should date. I like them both an awful lot but I just can't decide which is better, a Yankee or a Southerner. Won't you give me some help on this problem?

Sincerely,
Jonathan Spott

Dear Jonathan:

That really is a problem and as all triangles are, a hard one to solve. I realize just what agony you have gone through in this and will try my best to give some good advice.

For the time being you just let things rock along as they are. If time doesn't decide the matter then there's but one solution. Put the matter up to the fair sex and see which one wants to date you the most. You of course must remain neutral in the matter and let the girls have their say. When they give you their verdict you let that end the matter unless you want differently.

Yours truly,
Lettus

P. S. Would recommend a level spot out near the dairy barn for the duel they'll undoubtedly have.

Dear Miss Fixit,

I hate to be troubling you, but when one gets in a tight spot and can't figure out what to do then he must go to some one. I like a certain girl over in the dormitory so very much. In fact I've had my eye on her all this year. Now she's really cute, Miss Fixit, as yet hasn't settled on anyone.

Well it's like this, I just can't seem to get up enough courage to ask her for a date. I'm not so bad-looking myself, but some how every time I see her I can't get up enough courage to ask her.

Yours sincerely,
A Worried Boy

Dear Worried Boy,

I assure you this is not a trouble at all and I'm always glad to offer timely advice to those in trouble. Your problem is not out of the ordinary but is just a plain and simple case of "bashfulness"

There should be a cure for this bad case of the jitters and I think the best method would be to get to know some of her best friends.

Drop a few hints concerning her and she'll be sure to find them out. Then she might even approach you for a date. After all, this is "Leap Year" so don't give up yet.

Yours truly,
Lettus

Four things a man must learn to do. If he would make his record true; To think without confusion clearly, To love his fellowmen sincerely, To act from honest motives purely; To trust in God and Heaven securely.

We hear the Chemistry class had a fine class the other day. Now class let's get together and decide which floor of the Science Building that we're to meet on.

If J. C. soars aloft in conversation with a certain girl in Medina as he did in Chapel the other day then she'll surely be his.

How about Wayne Hammon-tree? Don't you F. H. C. girls feel slighted?

Dear Reader, what do you think of a preacher boy that gets so mixed up he goes to the wrong Church? J. C., will a map be necessary next time?

SPORT SLANTS

By "SHORTY" WATSON

At last the long-awaited Society basketball is underway. Bro. Witt, who is in charge of these activities, reports much interest has been manifested. Girls are allowed two days a week in the gym and boys two days.

Led by Bertelyn Cagle, the Philos seem to have the best girls' team but competition is strong and the winner will not be determined until the last.

With Paul Hall as their high point man, the Phi Kappa boys led their field. As yet they haven't lost a game. The Philos have two good players in Foy and Ary. The Sigma Rhos have Nicks and Renshaw to boast of, while Morton and Willingham stand out in the Alpha Taus.

PRE-WAR BASKET BALL GLORY

Past issues of the Sky Rocket reveal some very interesting items in the sports field. Seven years ago F. H. C. Lions won the Mississippi Valley Conference crown. The following year Jim Murdaugh broke the world's record for individual scoring in a game by scoring 78 points. Five years ago F. H. C. remained undefeated on the home court for the entire year.

In 1941 Ulyss Brock scored 83 points in one game to break the record held by Jim Murdaugh.

Interscholastic basketball was dropped last year because of war conditions but greater interest was shown in intra-mural athletics.

"Do you have any addresses of boys from F. H. C. who are in the service now? I think it would be nice for them to be remembered by all their classmates with as many letters as possible. I am sure a lot more of us would write to them if we only knew where they were. I wish there were some way that we could keep in touch with as many of them as possible."

This is another kind thought, and the Sky Rocket will cooperate as far as possible. Our boys in service, their families, and all our alumni will have to furnish us the information, which we are more than glad to publish.
