Homecoming Activities Announced

The Freed-Hardeman Homecoming program will begin at 4:00 p.m., Wednesday, November 25, with the all-star football game. Carmack Skelton, a FHC graduate and teacher from Louisville, will speak during the devotional service at 7:30. His illustrated lecture will be entitled "My Trip to the Holy Land". Following the church service, there will be a pep rally and volleyball game in the gymnasium.

On Thursday, there will be open house for the new home economics building and the formal opening of the new Student Center. An alumni chorus and the Freed-Hardeman College Chorus, both directed by Kelly B. Doyle, will sing.

A chicken box lunch will be served in the cafeteria, beginning at 11:30.

At 1:45 there will be a general Alumni meeting. Flavil Nichols, Alumni President, will deliver a message. This will be followed by the FHC Quartet.

Crowning of Homecoming

NEWS BRIEFS:

Bro. H. L. Samuels of Oxford, Mississippi, was the guest speaker in chapel, October 30, 1959. He is a well known educator in the Mississippi school system and was county superintendent for a number of years. Mr. Samuels is presently in the insurance business. He is an elder at the church in Oxford, Mississippi, and his wife is the Assistant Librarian at the University of Mississippi.

Clifton Ganus, Vice-President of Harding College and associated with the American Studies Division of the Political Science Department, will speak in the auditorium tomorrow at 7:00 p.m.

Mr. Ganus has traveled a great deal in Europe and has made a number of investigations into the political situation there. He is a fluent speaker and a highly regarded educator. Throughout the United States, his talents as a lecturer are in great demand. Yet, he finds time to perform his duties at Harding College.

His lecture will be of primary interest to social science and education majors, but will benefit all.

ABILENE CHRISTIAN

Total enrollment has reached 2459, which includes 927 freshmen. The freshman class is the largest to attend "the college on the hill". The students represent 44 states, District of Columbia and 12 foreign countries. "The Student Prince" is the title of the Homecoming Musical with Dan Danner and Deanna Bryan taking the leads.

President Don H. Morris started his 20th year in Christian Education with ACC in September of this year.

HARDING

The 36th Annual Lectureships will be November 23-26, with the theme of "Some Current Problems and Opportunities Facing the Church". Thirty-five speakers are scheduled, with John D. Cox opening the series.

Former students of FHC are still climbing on their ladder of popularity. I speak of the SKYROCKETS. They travelled 15,000 miles during the last year, visiting different schools and places. They plan to be together for the next two years. After that, who knows!

LIPSCOMB

Enrollment of 1888 is the largest group that ever attended Lipscomb.

The new girls' dorm will be ready for use in time for the winter term. Already in use is the new cafeteria.

PEPPERDINE

Carol Butler will represent Pepperdine in the Maid of Cotton Contest in the state division of the contest.

Fall musical production of Music and Drama Departments is the "Wizard of Oz".

Miss Ouida Heady, our school nurse, is from Gallatin, Tennessee. She received her B. S. in Nursing from the University of Tennessee.

D. ELLIS WALKER

Gospel Meeting To Begin November 8

Sunday, November 8, will see the beginning of an eight-day series of gospel meetings at the Henderson church. The preacher will be D. Ellis Walker of Dickson, Tennessee. Walker was born in McMinnville, Tennessee, became a Christian in 1919, and began preaching in 1924. He has served churches in Montgomery, Alabama; Sparta, Tennessee; and Jacksonville, Florida. He was educated at David Lipscomb College and is a frequent writer for the Gospel Advocate.

"This is an opportunity for a great spiritual feast. Let's all plan to be present, not only for the morning services at chapel hour, but each evening as well. You will truly be profited by hearing wonderful lessons from the word of God, and by fellowship with Christians."

Her office hours are each day beginning at 7:30 through 11:00 and 2:30 through 5:15.

The Philomathean Society took an early lead in the annual Intramural Speech Festival by winning first, second or third place in all but two of the individual events. The winning of second place in debate clinched their second consecutive festival victory. The 1959 victors earned a total of 80.5 points. They were followed by the Phi Kappas who placed in all but three of the individual events and earned 59 points in the festival. The Alpha Tau and Sigma Rho participants were third and fourth with 44.5 and 31 points. Festival awards added twenty, fifteen, ten and five points, respectively, to the semester's Social Club Trophy competition.

First, second and third place winners in the Women's Division of this year's festival were the following: Poetry Reading, Donna Shipman, Nancy Strasser and Sandra Monroe; Bible Reading, Joy Simon, Sandra Monroe and Donna Shipman; Extempore Speaking, Joy Simon, Joyce Henderson and Lavonda Chism; Dramatic Monologue, Donna Shipman, Joy Simon and Charlotte Root; After-Dinner, Joy Simon and Sue Harvick; Radio Speaking, Donna Shipman, Ann Hogan and Fran Wilcoxson and Original Oratory, Sandra Fields, Joy Simon and Sue Harvick.

Winning first, second and third places in the Men's Division were the following: Poetry Reading, John Smith, Walter Wells and Roger Coffman; Bible Reading, Ben Flatt, Don Freeman and Harold Neal; Extempore Speaking, Austin Emery and John Paul Simon (tied for first), Jack Medlin; Dramatic Monologue, Jimmy Murray, John Smith and Elmer Howell (tied for second), and Butch Cutler; After-Dinner, Samuel Miao, Johnny Adams and John Paul Simon; Radio Speaking, Austin Emery, Harold Neal and Walter Wells; and Original Oratory, Ben Flatt, Elmer Howell, and John Paul Simon. Five points were given for first place, three for second place, two for third place, and one for the participation of those who did not place.

First place winners in debate earning fifteen points, were Ann Hogan and John Smith of the Alpha Taus. In second place were Austin Emery and John Paul Simon of the Philos. Third place was taken by a Phi Kappa team composed of Butch Cutler and Jimmy Miller. Paul Morgan, John Paul Simon and Terry Walter tied for the best debater award. Awards were made at the annual Intramural Speech Festival banquet, held Thursday evening in the college cafeteria. Entertainment for the banquet was furnished by the after-dinner finalists and the Department of Music. Table arrangements were provided by Mrs. Lon Hardeman and the Department of Home Economics. Contestants, contest chairmen, judges and their wives, club and college officials attended the awards dinner.

GETTING BETTER ACQUAINTED

"What is that fellow's name?"

"Oh, he is in my survey class but I cannot remember what his name is."

Does this sound familiar? We have been living and working together for two and one-half months; one-fourth of this school year is already past; and yet, have you stopped lately and seriously considered how many people on this campus you can call by both first and last name? I did several weeks ago and I was shocked to discover that I knew less than one hundred fifty students even though I was here last year and know nearly all of the returning Sophomores. How about you? Some of you can probably name more, but I imagine that many of you cannot even call one hundred people by both first and last name.

We like to talk about the friendly atmosphere on our campus and how we are like one big happy family. This is certainly true, but it would be much better if we could call everyone by name.

I have made a resolution to learn three hundred students by Christmas, so do not be surprised if I ask your name three or four times. It is a little embarrassing to have to ask someone whom you are supposed to know, but I do not know any better way. It has paid off for me so far. I have learned over fifty people's names since I made my startling discovery.

I am hopeful that each one of you will join me in a campaign to get better acquainted. It will make our stay here a more enjoyable and profitable one.

J. P. S.

WHERE IS OUR HONOR?

Is there any honor among us? Is there one who can be trusted to execute assigned activities without "cutting corners"? Do we shift to others the responsibilities which are ours, or take for ourselves praise which belongs to others? Let us cooperate with our teachers and organizations in curricula and extra-curricula activities. If we agree to do certain activities, let us do our best to fulfill our agreement. Let us not neglect our part in any project and thus cause the whole project to fail. If we know we cannot do certain things or that we do not have the time to do them, let us step aside in favor of those who can and do have the time. Let us give honor to whom honor is due, and thereby maintain our own honor.

We claim to be Christians, the leaders of tomorrow, the light of the world, yet we think nothing of breaking what we call minor rules. If we "skip" classes, do we give the real reason for our absence or do we submit one that is more likely to get us excused? Do we face our mistakes, or do we dishonor ourselves more by trying to cover them.

Perhaps our most degrading fault is that of cheating in our classwork. It would be good if our teachers could give us our test on the honor system. But can you place one on his honor if he has none? Before this year is over we may be taking outside tests. We may be asked to sign pledges that we will neither give nor obtain help. We should be true to such pledges. If we have a chance to cheat, let us avoid it. What good is an "A" with nothing to support it?

Such habits as these may be "carry-overs" from high school. Let us leave them behind and act more mature. If we have any honor, let us keep it. If we have lost it, let us regain it.

ORCHID OF THE MONTH

"Where is the business manager?"

"Just stand still for a few minutes and he will rush by."

This is a conversation often heard on our campus. Mr. Harry P. Campbell has been at FHC since 1954, as business manager of the college. He is one of the busiest persons on the campus and the college could not exist without him.

Prior to Mr. Campbell's coming to FHC he served as field director for a life insurance company with headquarters in Jackson. His job as business manager includes things such as buying supplies for the school, general maintenance, partial director of student labor, etc. In fact it varies from putting a new light bulb in the girls' dorm to adding an annex to the Science Building.

Everyone on our campus knows and appreciates Mr. Campbell, and we are very glad to present him our orchid for the month.

W. F. S.

REVERENCE

By Ronald Coleman

Casual observance will convince one that at FHC some do not have the proper respect for the holy name of God. Moses said "fear this glorious and fearful name, JEHOVAH THY GOD". De. 28:58. I believe that all of us, students and teachers, need to develop more reverence for His name.

Jehovah is a mighty God, the only true and living God. He "made the world and all things therein." He is "Lord of heaven and earth." He is our creator and from Him all blessings flow. Surely Jehovah deserves our respect. The writer of Hebrews said we should "offer service well pleasing to God with reverence and awe: for our God is a consuming fire." God commanded Aaron and his sons in Lev. 22:2 "that they profane not my holy name: I am Jehovah." In Ps. 33:8,9 we are told "Let all the earth fear Jehovah. Let all the inhabitants of the world stand in awe of him. For He spake and it was done; He commanded and it stood fast."

Some of us think we could truly worship if we were in the very presence of God as Moses was. We fail to realize that we are in God's presence at all times. Once, through the door of the boys' dorm, I saw a devotional taking place. I could not hear, but during the prayer I noticed some boys with heads erect looking about the room at others. I am sure some with heads bowed were not actually praying. Could it be that some of us do not think God is there and even knows our thoughts? Could it be that we do not fear and respect His name? I see some gathered on the campus singing spiritual songs, not even pretending to worship God, but just there for a good time. Could it be that we "profane His holy name?" In our everyday conversation I fear some of us use His name loosely and even take it in vain. In chapel, are the songs, prayers, and scripture readings just something you go through mechanically? When the prayer is being offered in the cafeteria, is your mind on the food, the people you are with, or do you really thank God? In our thinking, do we really respect and reverence Him or is He some far off being with whom we have no real contact? Our God is real. He knows our thoughts. He demands reverence for His name. "Let all the earth keep silence before Him."

Religious Club

The Girls' Religious Training Class will meet tonight. At this meeting, several wives of married students will speak on different phases of the subject, "Marriage." All young ladies are urged by the sponsor, Miss Lora Laycock, to attend.

The officers of the Girls' Religious Training Class for the first half of this semester are Betty Chick, President and Joyce Romine, Vice President.

The Religious Debate Club has begun the new year with record attendances. Three debate propositions have been signed and others are being considered. The Garner-Murray Debate is set for November 19. The proposition is: The Scriptures teach that the old Jewish Sabbath which is in the Law of Moses is binding upon Christians in the year 1959, as a day of worship, as it was upon the Israelites under Moses.

Affirmative: Jimmy Garner

Negative: Jimmy Murray

Under the capable sponsorship of Olen Hicks, the Evangelistic Forum is experiencing fine interest, as evidenced by the attendance. Reports of the work in South Africa and New Zealand were a part of the October

Sez Simple Simon

This past month has shorely been a turrable experience fur me. I can't quiet figer it out, but fur some reason I got more compliments when I didn't git to make my speech in chapel than when I finally got to make it. One feller came up to me right after I didn't make my speech and said, "Simon, that was the best speech I ever didn't here you make. It waz shorely a golden speech, because silence is golden." He didn't seem to think it waz quite so good though after I made et last week.

Then to make it worse, after the Howloween party last Friday night, someone came to me an said, "Simon, I shore thought you should have won first prize for the best horror mask." You say, "What's so bad about that?" I wasn't even wearing a mask!!

The other day I was in the hall outside of Cornfield's office when I heard Lou Grotts say to Nena Hargott, "Jim jest don't know what I go through while he's snoring so loudly at night!" Nena replies, "No, and Sonny don't miss his small change neither."

Todd Attends 4-H Congress

Helen Todd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Odis Todd of Yorktown, Tennessee, will attend the National 4-H Club Congress.

November 29-December 3, the 4-H Club Congress will convene at Chicago, Illinois. Twelve hundred delegates from all the states and some foreign countries will be there.

Miss Todd has obtained this honor by working nine and one-half years in the 4-H Club.

Assignment FHC -

Many FHC students have been heard to complain, "I don't know how to study." There are several remedies for "study-itis," and a few of them are listed below.

1. The library is a quiet place where you can concentrate with fewer distractions than in your dormitory. Books, periodicals, and news sources are available for your immediate use.

2. If you study in the dorm, do so in your own room, and not in someone else's.

3. Don't eat while studying. The neatest work is done in neat surroundings and with clean hands.

4. Don't get into bed and then try to study. The temptation to go to sleep is too great.

5. Organize your work. Do first what needs to be done most, and finish one assignment at a time instead of flitting about from one to another.

6. Be considerate of yourself and of others. Loud radios, record players and such don't help someone who is trying to study for a test.

7. Concentrate. This is something you teach yourself to do; it cannot be acquired simply by wishing for it.

programs. Many more such reports are planned, according to Ronald Coleman, president.

Dexter Sammons, Vice President, has scheduled an excellent program thus far for the Preacher's Club. During October particular emphasis has been placed on the development of the individual toward better preaching. Jimmy Garner, President, reports good attendance, but still many preacher students are not taking advantage of the club. He emphasized that the club is for all preacher students, not just an elect few.

S.N.E.A.

Three hamburgers, a portion of potent punch and a cookie or so, all for the traditional twenty-five cents! And for some of the super-skilled-gulpers the number of 'burgers skyrocketed to six or seven. But after some one hundred loyal S.N.E.A.'ers had hiked miles in this crisp October weather, food consumption was bound to be at an all time high! Well, high for October anyway because November may prove to be an even greater record breaker since these meetings are monthly events for the future teacher's organization on the FHC campus. Mrs. Brumley, one of the S.N.E.A. sponsors, says, "If you're not a member you are being deprived! Join soon—the advantages are virtually unbelievable!"

Everyone is urged by S.N.E.A. members to watch for the American Education Week display soon to appear in one of the windows of Morgan's Furniture Store on Main Street. This exhibit is the handiwork of S.N.E.A. members under the direction of Walter Wells.

SOCIAL CLUBS

SIGMA RHO

Plans were made for a weiner roast on October 31 at Chickasaw State Park.

Officers for the last half of the semester were elected. The new President is W. C. Hill, and the Vice-President is Dick Harrison. The Sigma Rhos are looking forward to a very progressive year.

PHI KAPPA

The Phi Kappa membership now stands at a record breaking one hundred twenty-six. A picnic at Shiloh with plenty of food and lots of fun was the first big event for the Phi Kappas. There was widespread participation by the members in the speech tournament. Please consider the proposed plan of dressing up each Wednesday night. Express your views to your student council representative. Your co-operation will be appreciated.

HOME ECONOMICS CLUB

The Home Economics Club held their annual initiation for freshmen home economics majors on October 7 in the new home economics building.

Pat Bingham, presiding President, instructed the eight new members concerning their responsibilities and the importance of studying home economics. Plans for the year were discussed for a greater participation in state and local activities. Miss Reba Tucker welcomed the members and introduced the co-sponsor, Mrs. Gene Hibbett.

LIBRARY CLUB

The idea of getting books for the college library as a club project was suggested by Dean Gardner at a recent meeting of the Library Club. Plans for the "book drive" were then discussed. A suggestion for a College Book Week was made, but the date for this event was not settled.

Recently, the members of the club enjoyed a hamburger supper at the roadside park on Highway 45. Similar events will occur throughout the year.

F.B.L.A.

The Phi Beta Lambda soon have their initiation of new members. This will take place at the first night meeting.

The club's money-raising project for the year is selling candy. Money raised will be used in buying posture chairs for the typing room.

The Thespians elected their other officers for the year as follows: Vice-President, Glorie Lawson; Secretary, Donna Ship-

From Singapore To FHC

"What was your conception of Freed-Hardeman before you got here?" Samuel Miao, a foreign student from Singapore, replied, "I pictured it as a big, antique place, that was strict and enforced its system of Christian education." He said that he had seen pictures of a few buildings and had read some about the school in the Sky Rocket.

Then the question arose "What was your impression after seeing FHC for the first time?" With a big smile, Samuel said, "Very much above expectations, and especially am I pleased with the system of teaching and the spirit of love and friendship shown by everyone."

Samuel was born in Singapore September 13, 1941, where he completed twelve years of school. Eight of these years were in English schools. He was in the top five of his class. He studied the violin for eight years.

Samuel is a graduate of the Dale Carnegie course. During this course he met brother Ira Y. Rice, Jr. and his wife, Dada, a former student of FHC. Brother Rice taught Samuel the truth and had much to do with his coming to FHC to prepare himself to preach the gospel in Singapore. Samuel was baptized January 25, 1959.

With Ton Keng Koon, Samuel traveled 23 days by boat to the U.S. They then traveled by station wagon to Ft. Sumner, where he had trouble, and had to complete the journey by train.

Samuel said that the biggest difference between FHC and Singapore is the courting. He said that everyone seems to have a hobby of it here, whereas in Singapore dates are few and far between, and that they normally don't even think of marriage until they are out of college. Another thing he said was that the teen-agers look older here. Now, we won't mention the fact that Samuel has a girl friend from Singapore who is now in Pennsylvania and that he writes her quite often.

The most outstanding statement made by Samuel was "I had heard that Freed-Hardeman was the best place to learn the Bible on earth. I have not been disappointed in any way, and am completely satisfied with it all."

It would do us all good to talk to the students from other countries as well as those from our own country.

Officer Selection Team To Visit FHC

The United States Air Force Officer Selection Team will visit Freed-Hardeman College Thursday, November 12. The team will be available in the Student Lounge from 10 A.M. until 4 P.M. for the purpose of interviewing prospective Air Force applicants. Information will be available concerning all of the Air Force programs, particularly the officer procurement programs. The Aviation Cadet program, which leads to a commission as a Pilot or Navigator, will be discussed with all interested applicants.

The recruiters and other members of the team will also interview women who are interested. A WAF recruiter will be available to explain all of the opportunities open to women in the Air Force.

The Counseling Committee

One of the little-known but active faculty committees on campus is the Counseling Committee, headed by Walker Whittle. The committee works quietly, assisting students with problems of academic, social and emotional adjustment. It supplements and extends the activities of the faculty advisors.

As explained by Frank Van Dyke in a recent chapel statement, one of the committee's functions is that of liaison between students and the school's consulting psychologist, Dr. Jerry Boone. Dr. Boone comes to the campus from Memphis each month for counseling with students and consultation with the committee.

All of the committee's work is strictly confidential. In accordance with the ethical standards of psychologists, student interviews with Dr. Boone are not even discussed with the committee.

Interviews and appointments are made only at the request of the student concerned, though friends and faculty advisors often suggest that a student contact the committee.

Faculty members Walker Whittle, Eugene Hibbett, Frank Van Dyke, Brad Brumley, and David Thomas devote their time to the work of the Counseling Committee. They will be happy to talk with any student about its work or about particular problems.

A Step In The Right Direction

By Ben Flatt

It is a step in the right direction when members of the Student NEA look beyond the methods and requirements of their formal preparation for teaching and perceive the profession as a whole. We, the teachers of tomorrow, will be just what we let an education make us. We are now a part of the teaching profession, and all our steps must lead in the right way.

The two weeks which I spent in Lawrence, Kansas, and St. Louis, Missouri, with ninety other students from colleges and universities all over the nation were filled with new and wonderful experiences. Every meeting, program, and discussion was developed from a professional point of view.

The conference was divided into three major parts: the Student NEA Conference, the National Commission of Teacher Education and Professional Standards Conference and the National Education Association Convention.

During the first three days, the students and consultants met for the Student NEA Conference. Our workshop periods were used for the study of four related subjects: programs, ethics, policy, and membership. After swapping ideas, everyone began to understand how local and state programs were set up all over the nation, and each delegate started searching for ways of over-all improvement.

One of the principal problems brought before the group concerned the separation of Future Teachers of America Clubs and the Student NEA Chapters. It was unanimously agreed that a certain articulation should continue between the two even though separation was desirable.

The study of a Student NEA Code of Ethics was continued. The purpose was to state clearly the principles which will enable members to carry out responsibilities, to make wise choices when conflicts arise, and to act with discretion. The code included the duties of a student to himself, his college, the profession, and society. It also contained the duties of the student teacher.

After this part was concluded, we entered the NCTE Conference. The theme was "The Education of Teachers; Curriculum Program." The student delegates met with discussion groups on general education and on specific courses. We were associated with many of the most outstanding teachers and educational leaders in the country.

The last week was in St. Louis at the NEA Convention. The theme there was "Quality Teaching Opens Windows on the World." Here we joined about twelve thousand teachers in the ninety-seventh annual meeting. General sessions, business discussions, open meetings, and state delegation meetings were attended.

Even though the entire conference was filled with work, there was some time for fun. We had recreation periods together and attended major league ball-games in Kansas City and St. Louis. The municipal opera, "Oh! Captain!" was enjoyed in the open theater of St. Louis.

After participating in this conference, I realize more fully, my part in the teaching profession. I am determined to make my steps in the right direction. I believe that all the previous steps are just a part of the ladder leading to professional responsibility and successful professional experiences.

Intramural Sports Scene

By Don Freeman

With but five Intramural football games left to be played the motto of the players might have been phrased something like this, "We've just begun to fight!" and fight they did, for these last few games were to decide the final outcome of Intramural touch football competition for 1959.

Beginning this last round of play the Phi Kappas took the field against the Alpha Taus in one of the hardest fought games of the season. The fired-up Phi Kappas played a real good offensive game, but could not stop the Alpha Tau's hard charging line. The final score showed the Alpha Taus victorious 4 to 0.

The next game, on a drizzling October 5, was to prove to be the biggest upset of the season. What were once lowly and yet to be victorious Philos, behind the spectacular play of their half-back, Jimmy Parker, battled the undefeated Alpha Tau nine to a 0-0 tie.

The final results were:

	Won	Lost	Tie
Alpha Tau	5	0	1
Phi Kappa	4	2
Philo	1	4	1
Sigma Rho	1	5

ninety-four entries in the individual events and debate. More than twenty-five faculty and staff members served as judges. About fifteen other students, acting as contest chairmen, assisted festival director David Thomas, and his student director, Dale Allen, in conducting the event. "The success of this year's festival has come as a result of the cooperation and firm support of students, clubs, faculty, and administration," said Thomas at the banquet. "The participation has been gratifying, and I am looking forward to the continued growth of this annual festival as a competitive event and as an opportunity for improvement of speech abilities."

Kaye Jordan, Walter Wells and Nena Hargett.

CHORUS

The voice of the chorus may be heard in almost every part of the country. The chorus makes weekly recordings and these are sent out to approximately twenty radio stations.
