HENDERSON, TENN., OCTOBER, 1931

NO. 1

FIRST PARTY OF THE SCHOOL YEAR

Practically the entire student body and some of the faculty assembled in the gymnasium at 7 o'clock Monday night, September 28, for a get-acquainted party.

Slips of paper inscribed with parts of popular advertising slogans were handed round and partners were found by matching the parts. "Its off" sought "Because its out" valiantly and "Be kind" looked with diligence for "To your Adam's apple". After the guests were paired they formed a line of couples who marched to music around the gym. They were instructed to stop when the music stopped and await orders, such as "Those on the left progress three couples" or "Everybody march backward". Then two huge circles were formed, one inside the other, and they revolved until the music stopped, then everybody was required to introduce himself to the person occupying the same relative position in the other circle. Then music and marching recommenced. Then acquaintances widened rapidly. Then two groups, the "Snails" and the "Tortoises" were picked to vie in a peanut race—in which they propelled peanuts from the end of the gym to the other with only a piece of twine with one end looped.

Twice then time for the game that normally (?) opened the basketball season. A small red rubber ball was produced and two picked teams, composed of both boys and girls, with no regard to height or size or ability, played one hilarious quarter, with the refereeing of Christine Lawrence.

Then came one of the main features of the evening, a jazz wedding. A March of the Marries, conjuncted in marriage Miss Dewdrop Brumley, and James (Moon) Mullins. Preceding the wedding march Mr. Casey Fuller sang "The Sweetheart of Sigma Chi" and Miss Ruby Holsberry, "I Can't Give You Anything but Love". To the sassy measures of "Washington and Lee Swing" the bridal party galloped in. The bride carried a shower bouquet of tennis rackets, while the maids, Misses Marguerite King, Joan Willis and Ann Johnson, blushing carried bouquets of modern movie magazines. The bride was given (or rather, moved) away by her father, Mr. Don Butler, who carried a shotgun for the occasion. The impressive bracelet ceremony was used as soon as the best man, Baskin Fuller could locate that significant trinket.

Everybody was invited at this point to go over to the Chapel Hall, here for an entrancing half hour Coach Johnson held his audience spellbound with his slight-of-hand and magic tricks. He demonstrated beyond doubt his ability and versatility. Afterward back in the gym, two clever choruses of boys and girls gave in costume "By a Lazy Country Lane" and "Running Between the Raindrops."

The town girls had made a great quantity of delicious home-made fudge—divinity, chocolate, nut caramel, fruit—and huge trays were passed, together with cold fruit punch, and furnished a most delightful finish to the evening.

NEW STUDENTS, WELCOME

"The old order changeth, giving place to the new"—this is true of Freed-Hardeman College every year and it might not be amiss to say that it is truer this year than ever before. Where there is no change there would be no progress and for progress our Alma Mater is noted. We say to the new, "Welcome!" We say it sincerely, heartily, hoping eyes, believing, that that indefinable "brothers-under-the-skin" feeling so characteristic of students of this school has already taken possession of you as it did of us and is causing (Continued on page 3)

COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES

Commencement, 1931, now belongs among our most pleasant memories, but it will be long before "The Sweetheart Revue", the Junior and Senior music and Expression recitals, the inter-Society contest and the Alumni banquet will be forgotten. Too, two splendid classes graduated, with such excellent programs and such a splendid "imported" speaker that the story of them is yet of great interest, even though another school year is well begun and other classes are anticipating the thrill of graduation.

Wednesday morning, ten o'clock, May the 27th, 1931, twelve seniors in the High School department of Freed-Hardeman College began their march around the Chapel, toward the stage—their objective for years. But the shortest time was required in this march, which was perhaps the most thrilling of the thousands all twelve had made around the Chapel, and before anyone was quite prepared for the shock, they found themselves facing the most critical (at the same time—appreciative) audience perhaps, of almost any High School graduates. Those having parts shifted uneasily in their seats and swallowed rising lumps in their throats for some time, all the while their lips growing dryer and dryer with each passing minute. Musical numbers proved the versatility and talent of the group, further indicated when Miss Adele Moore, now Mrs. Aubrey Farris, gave a reading about Commencement. Miss Jasper Hardeman, who is now Mrs. Joe H. Rainey, was Salutatorian; her subject was "The Poetry of Life." She gave a remarkably pleasing study of that Poetry which consists chiefly in acquiring the habit of being able to adjust oneself to whatever condition one is in. Miss Hardeman spoke with an ease imaginable; perhaps she gets it from Prof. N. B. Hardeman!

James Horton, Valedictorian, gave some remarks about Happiness, and was perhaps the most unhappy of the entire group: it was the first time he had ever "stood on two feet," and said anything. When he finished he weighed only 114 pounds. Ah! what price a Valedictory!

The Principal of the High School then said some informal words of congratulation and commendation of the twelve, after which the benediction was said and the audience dismissed.

Thursday morning at ten o'clock, the immense class of the College department marched around and took their seats on the stage. Martha Neal Riddick chose as her subject for the Salutatory, "Sidney Lanier as a Poet", and Clara Nell Watwood gave a fine discourse on "Andrew Jackson" as the Valedictory.

Dr. Poole, of the University of Tennessee, was the guest speaker of this year's graduation. In his speech Dr. Poole spoke of the three distinct ages that have had a most noticeable influence on man. The first was the Renaissance. This age discovered the inner man; the immortal works of the brain were penned; music began on that gradual uplift in theme that has continued even to this day; the drama began to take on those properties and characteristics that eventually evolved the present day drama. The mind of man was the burning center of man's attention in the golden days of the Renaissance.

Second in Dr. Poole's list was the Scientific Age, in which man discovered the earth and many of its mysteries. This was another age in which man did great things, made discoveries that are to go down through history, despite the fact Time has proved many of the theories of that day untrue. The spirit of adventure prompted those discoveries and they will be honored as honest attempts. Dr. Poole adroitly inserted a sub-dominant theme in his second Age which was to continue to (Continued on page 3)

CAMPUS IMPROVEMENTS

We were greeted this year by a number of changes and improvements over the campus and around the buildings. During the vacation season somebody was busy making things comfortable and pleasing in every sense. We don't know how to appreciate these things until we stop and take account of the effort and cost. Of course this improvement was done for us, the student body.

The painting and finishing of the girls' home has produced therein a most attractive atmosphere. The interior walls are prettily tinted in pastel shades and the whole building is beautifully clean and new woodwork of all the buildings was freshly painted during the summer.

From the dining hall and ball ground another favorable impression is made on the observer—that of the painting of the rear of the administration building. This was done in a soft yellow, with white used for the window trimming.

The dining hall has also received an addition in the way of an annex to the kitchen, which has added much to the convenience of this phase of school life.

After a summer's growth the shrubbery that was planted last spring is making a beautiful appearance this fall. The campus now runs up from the street from green to greener, the buildings making a charming background.

The football grounds have been placed in fine condition by the spikes on the players' shoes. The goals are up ready for a point to be made. At one end of these grounds a garage has been constructed with several compartments which can shelter the cars of our many visitors.

Freed-Hardeman is ever a model of convenience, cleanliness, and neatness, and bespeaks the deep interest and painstaking care of those responsible for its maintenance and continuance.

F. H. C. WEDDINGS

OUR TWENTY-THIRD SESSION

Freed-Hardeman College opened its twenty-third session Wednesday, September 16, with an enrollment which was eight per cent larger than that at the opening last year. Thirteen states are represented in the membership of the school. President N. B. Hardeman stated that he considered the opening the best that the college had ever experienced.

There were a number of prominent visitors present and following the devotional by Prof. Hardeman, an address was made by Prof. Gordon Turner, of Scott's Hill High School, on the subject, "Freed-Hardeman's Rank Among the Junior Colleges of the Nation." Hon. Harry Hodges, of Finger, Tennessee, made an address along historical lines and was followed by Bro. R. E. Jack of Crawfordsville, Indiana; Dr. Johnson of Millington, Tennessee; and Eld. R. L. Smith of Texas. All the speeches were greatly enjoyed and gave us an idea of what people from elsewhere think of our school.

On Tuesday, September 22, a six weeks' teachers' training course was begun for those who are already in the profession and wish to review their work or advance their college standing. A most gratifying number of ambitious teachers are availing themselves of these courses.

This year there are many new courses being offered. Among them is a course offered on Methods in Teaching History. This is modeled after a course offered by the University of Chicago, where Mr. Sullivan has recently done graduate work, and should be very beneficial to those who are planning to teach. Another new subject is Geology, which already promises to be very interesting. Each morning classes in gymnastics are offered for those who do not play ball. These will help us to "keep fit." The second quarter a new and interesting feature will be added—a course in journalism. We have several " budding geniuses" in school and this should enable them to flower.

Not only the literary but also the musical side of school life is being extended. Each Thursday night there will be a sight-singing class conducted in the auditorium for the benefit of the students and any people in town who wish to attend. A Kiddie Band is being organized for the primary music pupils.

These courses could not be made possible were it not for our most efficient faculty, which has acquired several new members. Prominent among them are Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Sullivan. Mr. Sullivan has for many years made an extensive study of schools and methods and has proved himself a very capable teacher. He was with us in 1911-12 and we are glad to welcome him back. Mrs. Sullivan has charge of the Home Economics department and is also matron of the girls' home.

Perhaps one of the greatest additions to our faculty is Mr. J. L. Johnson, who graduated last year from Lambuth College. He has charge of the athletics and has already proved his merit along that line. He has made a complete study of his work, having studied for several years; one of his teachers was the late Knute Rockne. We feel sure that he is an asset to the school.

Mrs. Irene West, of Columbia, Tennessee, assisted by Miss Dewdrop Brumley, has charge of the primary department. She has taught for several years in prominent schools and is very efficient in her work. This will surely be one of the greatest years this department has known. Miss Ruby Caldwell comes to us again as the assistant music teacher. She has been with us for several years, with the exception of last year, when she went to Oklahoma to teach, and is very popular in both town and College.

Maymi W., "What a small appetite you have."
Lewis Harcastle (trying to be nice)—"To sit next to you would give any man a loss of appetite."

F. H. C. HOLDS LAMBUTH SCORELESS

Before an audience of approximately 2000 Saturday, September 26, the Freed-Hardeman Lions plucked the plumage from the vaunted Lambuth Eagles and won a great moral victory by holding the experienced Jackson gridders to a scoreless tie throughout a hardfought game on the Lambuth field. True to nature, the Lion proved "king of beasts" and kept the Eagle "up in the air" most of the time.

Both Freed-Hardeman and Lambuth played well on the defensive and were able to hold when the goals were seriously threatened. Consistent gains by Kent and Webb were the mainstays of the offense of the green and gold, while the punting of Lewis Harcastle always served to put the pigskin in safe territory when the Lion's goal was approached too close for comfort. Parham and Bowers played well on the Lambuth team.

Freed-Hardeman made several good gains on fumbles made by the opposition. The inexperienced Lions showed that they had been carefully tutored in the art of handling the oval.

All in all, the teams were very evenly matched, and the pigskin rested in midfield at the end of each period of the game. The newcomer, the Mississippi Valley Conference has made a very auspicious beginning and should speedily make its presence felt. Freed-Hardeman's good showing was caused by the careful training and by the fighting spirit instilled in them by their mentor, Laurent Johnson, an erstwhile Lambuth graduate.

The Lineup:
Freed-Hardeman	Pcs.	Lambuth
Spain	IE	Wadsworth
Stanfill	LT	New
Holland	LG	Fouts
Anderson	C	Nichols
Harcastle	RG	Ferguson
Pitts	RT	Evans
L. Harcastle	RE	Bowers
Kent	QB	Miller
Parrish	LH	Parham
Webb	RH	Sayy
Horn	FE	Gowan

Substitutions: F. H. C.—Mullins for Holland, Anderson for Parrish, Holland for Mullins, Parrish for Horn, Felts for R. Harcastle, Williams for Webb, Varnell for Holland, Lambuth—Faulkner for Newsom, White for Ferguson, Armstrong for Bowers, Crowe for Faulkner.

Officials: Hill, umpire, S. M. U.; Moss, referee, Vanderbilt; Wise, field judge, W. & L.; Nance, Head Line-man.

BRILLIANT START IN FOOTBALL FINE BASKETBALL PROS

The Sports outlook for Freed-Hardeman College for the year is brighter than ever before in the history of the school. The football season is already launched with every promise of a successful season in spite of the fact that this is the first year that Freed-Hardeman's warriors have graced the gridiron.

A fine squad of twenty-five men form the first fighting machine to ever represent F. H. C. and these men will be carrying the "Green and Gold" to many various places this season.

The squad has been working hard since September 7 and should be in excellent condition to uphold its end of the battles. The biggest drawback to the squad is its "green" men. We have fifteen inexperienced men but the aggregation has been responding readily to Coach Johnson's tutoring and they are showing unusual strength and ability for a Junior College Team. They have already proved their mettle in the practice scrimmages with Union University, an S. I. A. A. team, and in the recent game with Lambuth, and should soon make their presence felt in the Mississippi Valley Conference.

Come on football boys—We're for you!

PATIENCE

Paul said in Heb. 12: 1, "Let us run with patience the race that is set before us." There is indeed a long race before a man who undertakes to follow the life of Christ as nearly as possible. There are years of mental persecution by our fellowmen, sometimes even banishment from our social set. Besides that, there are fightings within ourselves between the spirit contending for the right and the flesh struggling for its passions and desires. Between these two one must always give in and surrender to one or the other and the victory of the right depends on our patience. Patience is one of the Christian graces that are to be developed during the Christian life and it is by the development of these graces that we are able to withstand the temptations of the devil. If this is developed more and more as the years go by and we become able to resist temptations, there is a reward at the end for us. Paul says in Heb. 10:36, "For ye have need of patience that having done the will of God ye may receive the promises." As the promises of God are great, so it is well worth a lifetime of work to develop patience and do the will of God, finally receiving the promises as a reward.

As we might just as well apply Heb. 12:1 to our school work. It is indeed a long race to carry on our work for nine months. If we develop patience during that time and persevere to the end then we too have the reward of satisfaction in our work done, as well as in a new store of knowledge for use in future life. So let us run the race with patience in all things.

THE PHILOMATHEAN LITERARY SOCIETY

The word Philomathean comes from two Greek words, "Philo" meaning love, and "Math" meaning learning. This has been the society's aim since its beginning—before 1908—in the old Georgia Robertson Christian College, later the N. T. N. and B. C., and at present in Freed-Hardeman College. In all these years it, alone of societies here, has never failed to carry on its admirable work.

In 1917 the society obtained a charter from the state of Tennessee—a distinction enjoyed by no other society in school.

Monday, September 21, was one of the best opening days in the history of the Philomathean Society. Temporary President James Horton and Sec. Lavelle Hodges, presided. A short but very entertaining program was rendered by a few of the old members. This program made such a good impression on the new students that almost every one present placed his name on the roll book without thinking twice.

After the close of the program the new officers were elected as follows:

Denton Neal, president.
Bosey Fuller, vice-president.
Johnnie Eubank, secretary.
Maymi Walker, assistant secretary.

Roy Hardcastle, sergeant-at-arms.
JoAnn Willis, Gertrude Phifer, Helen Newman, program committee.

When the business had all been attended to, Prof. Sullivan made a talk that was really an inspiration to all. The theme of his talk was, "I Will Try." Mr. Sullivan was a member of the society about twenty years ago and as all others "Once a Philo—Always a Philo."

SIGMA RHO SOCIETY

The Sigma Rho Society, whose purpose is to develop the literary talents of the students of Freed-Hardeman College, dates back to the earlier days of the N. T. N. and B. C.

The society met Monday, September 21, in Chapel Hall for the first meeting of the year. Many new students were present and nearly every one placed his name on the roll book.

The first program was of such variety as to start the society off with a "bang" and it was only a sample of the numerous different talents represented in the society.

Many such enjoyable meetings will be held throughout the year and we invite you new students to enjoy them with us—Come and join us! Be a Sigma Rho! You'll never regret it.

THE BIBLE SOCIETY

The Bible Society is one of the greatest societies in Freed-Hardeman College. It has always maintained high ideals and done good work.

Until last year the girls did not have the privilege of being members nor did the boys who were not preachers or planning to be. But now every student may take advantage of this opportunity and be a member of the Bible Society. The work for the current year was well organized Monday afternoon, September 21.

SONGS EVERY FRESHMAN SHOULD KNOW

I. The Old Family Toothbrush.
Tune: The Old Oaken Bucket.

The old family tooth brush,
The old family tooth brush,
The old family tooth brush,
That hung by the sink.
First it was father's,
Then it was mother's,
Now it is sister's,
And soon 'twill be mine.
Father misused it;
Mother abused it;
Sister refused it,
And now—it is mine!
(Repeat first four lines.)

II. Advertise.
Tune: Auld Lang Syne.
The duck it never cackles
'Bout it's million eggs or so;
The hen is quite a different bird;
One egg—and hear her blow.
The duck we spurn, but crown the hen,
Which leads me to surmise;
Don't hide your light, just blow your horn—
It pays to advertise.

III.
It was midnight on the ocean,
Not a street car was in sight;
The sun was shining brightly
And it rained all day that night.

One summer day in winter,
The snowflakes fell like glass;
A bearfoot boy with shoes on
Stood sitting on the grass.

That evening as the rising sun
Wast setting in the West,
The little fishes in the trees
Were huddled in their nest.

The rain was steadily pouring down,
The moon was shining bright,
And everything that could be seen
Was hidden out of sight.

As the organ peeled potatoes,
Lard was rendered by the choir,
While the sexton rang the dishrag
Someone set the church on fire.

"Holy smoke", the preacher shouted,
In the rain he lost his hair;
Now his head resembles heaven
For there is no parting there.

Mr. Peal—"Young man, I'll teach you to make love to my daughter."
Bosey Fuller—"Thank you, sir, I'm not making much headway."

Alton Maner—"I played the part of Romeo so naturally that when I died a man in the audience fainted."
Mrs. Powers—"Wonderful! But why?"

Alton Maner—"He was my insurance agent and had just written a policy for me."

Pansy—"I'm only a poor working girl."
Roy H.—"Well, you can't work me."

you to stake your allegiance, your fondest hopes and highest ambitions right here.

Homesickness? Who ever heard of the malady? Surely it never proved to be fatal! Yes, we know how much you'd like to see that old crowd around your home town "sody fountain." We know you'd like to see old Hank Whatzis of dear old Padooka High kick off in the homecoming game—We had those same longings once—then we gradually began to realize that the crowd around the Henderson drug store looked good to us too and that "Slim" of the F. H. C. Lions was really a better punter than old Hank—We realized, too that life would be rather stale outside of the old dormitory wherein we formed some of the deepest, most lasting friendships of our lives. In some cases, attachments even stronger than friendships have been formed resulting from acquaintances made on the campus and "thereabout". Of course those are extremely rare since the mind of the average student doesn't run that way at all. O my, no!

The school could not be described as a "melting pot" and yet there is none more democratic. It doesn't matter whether you're from Bohunk, Arkansas, or from Atlanta, Georgia, you are shown the same courtesy, and the same warm welcome is extended to you. You are automatically one of "the bunch."

The size of the school is conducive to the cultivation of those characteristics in each person which make him more attractive, which give him the distinction of "Individuality" which (as we have heard) "cannot be copied". We are not "Number 700,023" but we are "John Jones" or "Mary Smith" or even "Joe College."

This isn't a sort of "soothing syrup" which keeps you from being discontented; it isn't an advertisement (since we weren't paid to write it); it has no political pretensions, nor does it propose to be a panacea for "what ails you". It is simply a lengthy, rambling, roundabout (and yet one hundred percent cordial) way of saying to every new student of Freed-Hardeman College—"Welcome!"

the third; in the Scientific Age was begun the doubting by many men of the existence of God.

In the third part of his speech, Dr. Poole pictured the present age as the Machine Age, in which machinery has taken and is swiftly taking the place of man in the production of the earth's consumption goods.

Dr. Poole admirably presented his views concerning the unrelieved misery, suffering, and evil resulting from this substitution of machinery for men. He suggested that a greater part of this present world depression was due to this Machine age; pictured the many thousands who are without work and starving and going unclothed, notwithstanding the fact that there is such an abundant supply of food and raiment. He again mentioned the widespread avowed disbelief in God. His prediction for the future was an unavoidable clash between Labor and Capital unless the present order of things is changed, and soon.

In his closing, Dr. Poole literally threw the gauntlet to the graduates in saying that it was up to them and all in their positions, to make the radical and necessary changes; that they were the citizens of tomorrow and theirs was the heritage of these terrific evils, therefore they should and must prepare themselves to step courageously forth and work out the best solution to the mighty problems that were confronting them.

MUSIC GROUPS ORGANIZED

Special groups in sight-singing, chorus and glee club have been organized and now running on regular schedule. Classes in sight-singing meet on Tuesday at 9:50 and Wednesday at 3:30. Chorus and glee club groups meet on Wednesday at 9:50 and Friday at 3:30. Quartets will be organized in these classes and extra work will be done with them privately. Also a class of song leaders will be given special attention.

There will be a class and general drill conducted on Thursday night, beginning at an early date, for the entire student body, church, and town of Henderson, free to every one.

"IN WONDROUS MERRY MOOD"

Ernestine Goodgion—crying
Mrs. Goodgion—What's wrong, darling?
Ernestine—Johnny broke my doll.
Mrs. Goodgion—How, dear?
Ernestine—I hit him on the head with it.

Paul Henderson—I just had a plate of oxtail soup and feel bully.
Leroy Miller—That's nothing! I had some hash and now I feel like everything.

Charles Roland—Mother, what is that tramp doing with that piece of wrapping paper?
Mrs. Roland—Hush dear, that's a college graduate with his diploma.

Pome
He mixed his peas with honey,
He'd done it all his life.
'Twas not because he liked the taste,
But it held them on his knife.

Barber—Will you have anything on your face when I'm finished, sir?
James Horton (in chair, having mustache shaved off)—Well, it isn't likely.

Benny Cooke—Has Roy Hardcastle changed much in the years he's been away?
Clifford Phifer—No, but he thinks he has.
Benny—How's that?
Clifford—He's always talking about what a fool he used to be.

Spain—I really do not know how to express my appreciation.
Mr. Folwell—Well, since the Phoenicians invented money a man does not have to worry over that question any more.

Brother Joe—So you and your wife share alike in getting breakfast.
Mr. Roland—Yes, she burns the toast and I scrape it.

Mrs. Wilson—I must apologize for the pie I made, dear. I think I left out something.
Mr. Wilson—"Nothing you left out could make a pie taste like this. It's something you put in."
